Federalists March on Rebel Forces

BRAZIL EAGERLY AWAITING NEWS

Revolutionists Driven Back From Stronghold
BARRACKS HELD
Sao Paulo Military Ground in Rebel Hands

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 10.—News was eagerly awaited here early today of the final defeat of the military rebels which have held a part of the city of Sao Paulo since last Saturday.

It was expected the remaining rebel positions would fall today if it has not yet been captured.

"Legal troops, sent against the rebels in Sao Paulo now are in full operation with the supreme command perfectly organized," says the latest official communication.

MUSEUM URGED FOR TEXAS U.

25-Year Collection Held at University

AUSTIN, Texas, July 10.—Members of the faculty of the university of Texas have suggested that there should be a museum located on the campus among other improvements proposed for the expansion of the institution. There are many unusual and valuable scientific and rare collections owned by the university which are not housed in such a way that they can be readily used or inspected. Many of them are packed away in obscure places until a suitable place for their display can be provided.

The bureau of economic geology and technology has an excellent collection of materials that have been acquired during the last 25 years for the purpose of illustrating the economic resources of the state, and these are housed in the basement of Brackenridge hall. It is open to the public every week day. The collection comprises crude oil and the various products obtained from them; clay, loam, and fuller's earth from all the principal deposits; ores of iron, silver, copper, lead, zinc, and an exceptionally fine exhibit of quicksilver ores from Brewster County; cement materials and the finished products; coals and lignite; building and ornamental stones, crude and polished; agates and chalcidolite, crude and polished; glass, stamens, gravel, lime-stone, and top rock.

AGED PROSPECTOR DIES AFTER STRIKE

LUDLOW, Col., July 10.—For almost half a century Peter Collins pursued fortune, and at 86 his efforts were successful. In the Mojave desert he struck gold ore running $80 a ton.

Today he is in his grave, a week after his lucky strike. He walked in front of a Santa Fe train and was instantly killed.

Nomination of J. W. Davis Blow to William J. Bryan

By United Press.
NEW YORK CITY, July 10.—The nomination of John W. Davis was the crowning blow to William Jennings Bryan. The commoner, opposed Davis as a reactionary and a wet. He did his utmost to prevent his nomination, but when the tide set in today, Bryan was helpless.

"I have nothing to say," said the commoner after the nomination.

"I don't know if I shall have anything to say," said Bryan.

Later, he stepped into the United Press headquarters to announce that he would support Davis.

"I am supporting the ticket," said Bryan. The commoner was tired and worn from his efforts during the convention.

Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, said:

"It is a magnificent nomination. In ability, public service and character, John W. Davis trifles with Americans. He will appeal to the people and will grow every day in popularity. He will be elected in November."

"It is a fine nomination," said Tom Taggart, "and it solves the situation. There are no more criticisms of Mr. Davis because he is attorney for a big banking house, but if I were in business I'd get the biggest and best lawyer I could find. I think the democratic party wants the biggest man it can find."

John W. Tryon Gets First Tarpon Prize

TO JOHN W. TRYON goes the first Tarpona club trophy under tarpon-catchers' rules.

Tryon, yesterday, fished for a tarpon, king of the sporting fishes, and captured the fish and the trophy.

The fish was six feet long, weighed 35 pounds, and was captured with regulation tackle requisite for the gold button which will be awarded by the Tarpona club.

WHITE FLOGGING CASE DISMISSED

Principal Witnesses Fail to Appear in Court

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, July 9.—Due to lack of evidence and the fact that the principal witnesses would not appear in court, the case against Fred White, city attorney of Port Arthur, as principal in a whipping case and other Port Arthur men named as accomplices was dismissed this morning in 60th district court by Judge J. D. Campbell.

White and eight other men including O. R. Whittington, Lee Pool, M. E. Bailey, P. W. Sandefur, Ernest Broadway, J. R. Davis, W. W. Corington and L. L. Byrnes all appeared in court and announced ready and even went further and tried in every day to bring the case to trial.

Indictments returned.

All were indicted by the 60th district court grand jury several months ago in connection with the whipping of Carl and Clay Dunn in Port Arthur. The two men were knocked unconscious near the city hall at Port Arthur, later taken out in the vicinity of the Atlantic refinery and beaten severely. They were given seven days in which to leave town. They were brought back to town by passing automobiles.

Quiet Crowd Awed By Grim Death Tragedy Meets Coolidge Train

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 10.—The Coolidges were among their own people today. They have brought their dead son home.

The presidential special which has borne the body of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., from Washington, arrived here at 7 o'clock this morning with the executive family, a dozen intimate friends and the members of the cabinet aboard.

Half Northampton met the train at the station. A quiet crowd awaited by the tragedy which has visited the city's one time mayor, and yet curious to see the imposing corps of state officials who escorted him here.

Timid Crowd Waits

They peered timidly at the long line of coaches as the dusty train drew in. But if only half Northampton greeted the Washington special, all Northampton prepared for the funeral. It was held at Edwards Congregational church at 9 a. m. A thousand flags hung at half mast; store windows showed drawn shades; the town fathers have decreed this a day of mourning.

Flowers were banked high at the church at an early hour. The doors were open to all and even before the body of young Coolidge had been moved from the station, the townspeople had begun to fill the news.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge rode before the train entered the station after passing a reasonably good night.

They had retired shortly after leaving Baltimore last night in an effort to gain strength for the day's ordeal. Together with their children, John, they were quartered in the final coach of the train.

Intimate Friends Attend

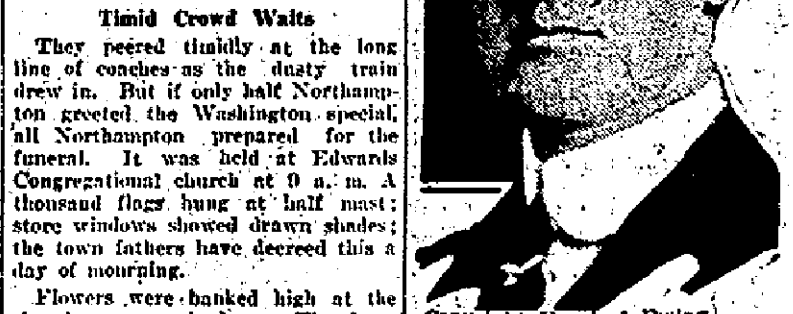

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, intimate friends of the president's family and James R. Coughlin, White House physician, shared the same car. Mrs. Coolidge showed sharp lines of weariness in her face today.

Breakfast was served to the family in their car. Shortly afterward they were joined by William M. Butler, of Boston, chairman of the republican committee, and Henry F. Long, secretary to the president when he was governor of Massachusetts.

The funeral train made good time on its journey through Baltimore, Philadelphia, the New Jersey cities and New York. The schedule had been advanced to avoid curious eyes and making the trip as private as possible.

Northampton is well policed for the occasion. Main streets were kept clear for the funeral procession.

The casket was hurried shortly before 9:30 and taken direct to the Edwards Congregational church. A marine guard marched behind.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who, though an invalid, cut a pathetic figure at the funeral of the president.

EX-CANADIANS RETURN HOME

People Left When Farm Crops Failed

HALIFAX, N. S., July 10.—Canadians who have lived in the New England states for years are returning to their former homelands in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island, according to a report of the Maritime Colonization and Development association.

More than a decade ago when little money was to be made on farms and good wages were offered in the factories of New England, there was an exodus of people, especially of French extraction, across the international boundary from the maritime provinces. Now that farm homes are to be bought cheaply and good wages are being offered in the factories, the exodus is being reversed. Many ex-canadians are being located on farms by the colonization association.

JIM COX MADE BREAK POSSIBLE

Defeated Leader Sought Unity of Disgruntled Forces

LED NOMINATION

Secreted Consultations Brought About Harmony

NEW YORK, July 10.—In a sunlit room on the twelfth floor of the Waldorf hotel, free from the reek of stale cigars and without perspiring politicians in their shirt sleeves, the nomination of John W. Davis as democratic standard bearer was made possible.

A medium-sized man, close knit, alert, immaculate, dressed for business, his keen gray eyes peering intently from behind a pair of nose glasses and his stream of callers, made that nomination possible. That man was James M. Cox of Ohio, until today the titular leader of the democratic party.

A candidate himself who had gone down to defeat by 7,000,000 majority—the largest in history—after making a "crusade" for the league of nations, Cox put aside personal ambitions and the human desire to show his teeth in a "come back" in the throes of the bitterest factional feud in the history of the party.

He came to New York on Monday bearing the olive branch and he succeeded in restoring harmony among the warring elements.

Cox Led Influence

On Saturday night, an appeal was made to Cox to use his good offices to break the deadlock between McAdoo and Smith. But his supporters told him that he could be nominated. On Sunday night, the futile attempt at a compromise was made. When word of the result reached him, Cox hesitated no longer. He forgot all but party harmony and came.

Cox came not in the interest of any candidate. He came merely as a peace maker without a string tied to him. But, after looking over the field, he eliminated them all but Davis as the man on whom all could agree. Senator Glass of Virginia and Senator Walsh of Montana were the last to be cut off his list.

When he arrived Monday morning, Cox issued a general invitation to democrats to consult him. The leaders came—George Brennan of Illinois; Tom Taggart of Indiana; Ed. Moore of Ohio; Correll Hall of Tennessee; Pat Harrison of Mississippi—but they were not the ones he came to see. He wanted to confer with the delegates who were to make the nomination.

Refinery Workers Local No. 23 will concentrate its efforts to be a factor for greater good in the community as a result of discussion before the organization last night, when it was brought out that from an humble beginning the organization is now the largest of its kind in the state.

The membership decided to change the weekly initiation to once monthly, the first initiation under the new rule to be Wednesday, August 6.

Officials requested a full turnout at the organization next Sunday at W. O. Hall, stating that, when questionnaires addressed to local issues will be read before the Jefferson County Farm-Labor Political conference.

35 American Ships Enter Sabine Port

A total of 35 American vessels with a tonnage of 18,774 entered the ports of the Sabine district during June, according to A. A. Gunter, assistant collector of customs.

There were 20 vessels cleared, American, with a tonnage of 60,377. Foreign vessels entered were 15, with 48,005 tonnage. There were cleared 21 foreign ships, tonnage 65,477. Foreign countries with vessels represented in Sabine district ports during June were Belgium, France, Finland, Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Sweden, England, Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Trinidad, India, China, Japan, Egypt and British West Indies.

What They Think About Nomination

J. E. GRADIER: "I think Coolidge will get back in."
J. O. HERRIN: "I think they picked a republican ticket. I don't think the democrats stood much chance after the first week of their convention. They surely broke the world's record."

MRS. HALLIE DESMER: "Oh, I'm so tired of looking at the papers. I imagine William Jennings Bryan feels very much gratified at his brother being nominated vice president."

VERNON J. WISTNER: "I'm a little bit disappointed that they didn't ask me about taking the vice presidential nomination. Don't see how they pulled such a bonhead."

C. A. LECOQ: "Well, I've got no kick coming. I wish they got a pretty good ticket after all."

H. L. WILEY: "I haven't formed an opinion about Davis yet. I really don't know enough about the man."

WILLARD DAVIS: "I won't vote for Davis—100 vote for Calvin Coolidge. I have always been a republican for three square meals a day. But I don't see how the democrats can reverse Davis and their platform. You know the democrats have always stood for the 'people' and against 'Wall Street' and the vested interests, and Davis is a Wall street corporation lawyer."

GOTHAM LEADER GIVES SUPPORT

Davis Extends Olive Branch As Ballots End

NEW YORK, July 10.—Discordant forces of the democratic party which fought bitterly for more than two weeks were called together today to plan a united campaign for John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, the nominees who emerged victorious from the unprecedented struggle.

The national committee met in the Waldorf Hotel to reorganize behind its newly chosen leaders and smooth scores that were opened in the 10-day convention.

Davis Extends Olive Branch

Davis himself extended the olive branch to the leaders who had fought him and in his first pronouncement after his nomination called upon the party to unite.

The ascension of the brother of William J. Bryan to second place on the new democratic national ticket was planned to close the rift between the commoner and Davis. Religious differences which were so bitterly fought out were hidden behind the veil of the past and all the unsuccessful candidates gave assurances in varying degrees of co-operation.

Charles W. Bryan Of Nebraska

Handicapped by the overshadowing height of his brother's (W. J. Bryan) career, Governor Charles W. Bryan stubbornly worked away at minor offices until his achievements caused him to be elected governor by a huge majority in a morally republican year.

Born in Salem, Ill., on February 10, 1867, Bryan attended public schools and later the University of Chicago. When still in his early twenties he came to Nebraska, where his brother, William Jennings Bryan, had preceded him. At first he was employed as a salesman for an Omaha, Neb., firm, soon after entering politics for the first time to wage war on the saloon in company with his brother.

In 1890 he was appointed to Governor Hokeley's staff and became associate editor of the "Commonwealth," when its publication was started in 1901.

He served as city commissioner in Lincoln and in the state legislature before being elected governor.

His war on coal, gasoline and travel profiteers and subsequent inauguration of municipal sale of all three placed him in national prominence.

CHARLES BRYAN IS NOMINATED ON 1ST BALLOT

Walsh, Meredith Both Refuse Party Honor

'SHORT AND SN.'PPY

Nomination Address Cut Off By Candidate

UNITED PRESS STAFF HEADQUARTERS, WALDORF HOTEL, NEW YORK, July 10.

John W. Davis of West Virginia for president, and Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska for vice president.

That democratic ticket, coupling the conservative east with the progressive west was brought out of the most bitterly contested convention in political history at 2:25 a. m. today.

The nomination of the Nebraska governor was forced by a vote of democratic leaders, after he had been selected, personally, by Davis as his running mate. It came on the first ballot, furnished a curious anticlimax to the fierce battle over the presidential nomination, which ended in a compromise on the 103rd ballot late yesterday afternoon.

Selection of Bryan was made only after the democrats had been twice turned down by progressive candidates for the vice presidency.

For Walsh of Montana, Davis' first choice, in a letter to the convention, formally refused the offer stating: "I could not serve his party by running for re-election to the senate. The name of Edith T. Meredith of Iowa was withdrawn after he had refused to run with Davis on the ground that he was too conservative to appeal to the agricultural west."

Recessed One Hour

Davis was unwilling to accept any of the names of candidates who had been nominated formally. A recess of one hour was called at midnight while Davis went into conference with leaders at the historic democratic rendezvous, the Manhattan club, across the street from Madison Square Garden.

When Bryan was finally hit upon, Chairman Correll Hull, Tom Taggart, Senator Pat Harrison and other leaders, bareheaded, rushed back to the garden to get Bryan's acceptance. He met them at the door and speedily gave his consent. It was necessary to place him in nomination and Harry B. Feherty was rounded up to name him. Bryan himself told his sponsor to make his speech "short and snappy." Feherty complied and the balloting began.

Worn out by two weeks of bickering and strife and three hours of oratory during the forepart of the evening, hundreds of the delegates had departed for home. The balloting was all but deserted. Less than 500 delegates remained of the vast crowd that jammed the galleries to give Governor Al Smith of New York, their hero, a thunderous ovation and Davis, who appeared by invitation, a cordial welcome. Most of the delegates seats were filled by "ringers."

Crowd Gets Noisy

Chairman Walsh had turned the gavel over to Representative Barkley of Kentucky, who had great difficulty in controlling the crowd after the balloting was under way. But the din that marked the earlier sessions was gone. Voices rang out clear and sharp in the huge hall.

Humorists made the balloting more difficult. They voted for men and women whose names were unfamiliar to the tally clerks.

Bryan got away slowly until the word was passed that he was Davis' choice.

After casting half of the Illinois vote for Mayor Lydon of New York, as a compliment, George E. Brennan of Illinois led the switching which ended in Bryan amassing a total of 739 votes, more than the necessary two-thirds. He was followed by Franklin D. Roosevelt, who cast New York's 30 votes solidly for Bryan. Then Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City whipped his delegates into line and the landslide went on.

Thrilling Tale of Adventure Starts

"The Land of Forgotten Men," a thrilling story of adventure, love, and romance in the North woods, starts today in serial publication in The News. In this story there is a double struggle—the fight of men to survive in one of the world's most barren regions, and the equally desperate battle of two strong men of different blood for the woman that each loves well.

K. C. S. to Spend $175,000 In Terminals Here

CONGESTION ON 7TH ELIMINATED

Main Yards To Be Built at Long's Crossing

DENY REMOVAL RUMOR

Will Provide Six Miles of New Trackage

A terminal improvement program announced by Kansas City Southern officials yesterday marks the second step by the K. C. S. in its fight to retain Port Arthur prestige in the event the road loses its fight, now before the Interstate Commerce commission, to prevent extension of the proposed Duff line to Port Arthur, it was indicated here today.

While K. C. S. officials today did not discuss matters of future railway policy in Port Arthur, it was declared that no efforts would be spared to bring the road's facilities here up to a point where not only every present need would be cared for, but provisions made for future needs as well.

The Detailed Program
Briefly outlined, the K. C. S. improvement program in Port Arthur, at an estimated expenditure of $175,000, will call for:

1-New repair trackage.
2-New coach tracks.
3-Eradication of present Seventh street congestion.
4-Additional roundhouse facilities.

5-Added industrial trackage.
6-Added team tracks.
7-Additional yard facilities.

Probably the most radical improvement will be that of getting away from present congestion at the Seventh street yard, crossing.

"None of this trackage will be removed from the Seventh street yard," G. P. Williams, assistant to President (Turn to Page 2, Column 1.)

Commander Dunn says the aid of the Red Cross in attending to day-time applicants has been of great benefit and hastened the completion of the big task. Officer Joe Wynn, of the police department, Bertillon expert, continues to make fingerprints at the rate of about 100 daily.

LOMAIX STILL AFTER POLL TAX EXCHANGE

Efforts of G. E. Loman, city tax assessor and collector, to establish a transfer station in Port Arthur for poll tax exchange is still being made and he will know in a day or so the decision of the county tax collector, he said Thursday morning.

The transfer station will make it possible for those moving from Port Arthur precinct to another since poll tax payment to transfer without having to go to the county seat.

Old-Fashioned Ethiopian Equalizer Discarded When Battlers Seize More Modern Weapon

POPULARITY of the old-fashioned straight-edged razor as an Ethiopian equalizer in disputes marital, fraternal and of other negro natures is being fast usurped in Port Arthur by a more modern weapon.

Butcher knives.

The docket of Judge Dyeus in police court reveals a situation which razor dealers might well ponder.

Of a dozen negro instances of peace disturbances tried before Judge Dyeus the last eight days when aggravated assault was charged, it was not razors to which the blacks turned to settle difficulties.

Six of the cases, the women involved admitted, using butcher knives to strike off attacks from too ardent husbands and admirers. Three negro men were charged, but one admitted it, with staying with the old approved, orthodox weapon of defense and offense—razors.

The other two cases as far as officers could learn, nothing but fists were used in African embroilment. The results show a new weapon departs when the negro defendant uses a smoothing iron application at strategic cranial points on her "man."

Times are certainly changing, old officers say, as the razor boom declines and butcher knife delinquency goes on a high tide of popularity.

J. B. SAINT IS CRITICALLY ILL

Seized Suddenly Tuesday With Heart Attack

Seized suddenly Tuesday by a heart attack, J. B. Saint, 2905 Lake Shore drive, this afternoon was reported to be slowly sinking with hopes for his recovery practically abandoned by his family.

Today Percy Saint, attorney general of Louisiana, and Charles Saint, brothers, arrived to be at their brother's bedside.

Son Expected Friday
John Herpin Saint, a son, is expected to reach here Friday from Casper, Wyo., where a message telling him of the gravity of his father's illness intercepted him while on an automobile tour through the west with friends.

Mr. Saint's condition Wednesday was such as to give rise to hope that his indisposition would correct itself after rest and medical treatment. Word that his condition was regarded as critical came from the family just before noon.

Mr. Saint is well known here, for years, being a chief clerk of the Texas Company.

TRACT PROPOSED FOR CITY TRASH

Wade, Herpin Discuss Garbage Problem Here

Commissioner Wade and City Engineer Herpin solved the city garbage problem to their mutual satisfaction today in informal conversation when they discussed a plan of buying a 10-acre tract somewhere several miles out of the city to relocate the abattoir and dumping grounds.

The present location in the north end is directly in the path of city expansion, both Wade and Herpin agreed. Whether a tract should be bought further up on the channel or out in the marshes was not agreed upon.

"Lots of things are being dumped out at the grounds now that shouldn't be dumped there," Wade said, adding that the odor was offensive. "All that country is going to build up in the next five years."

No mention was made of building a city incinerator.

WHERE'S LOGAN ATTACHES ASK

Mayor Keeps Vacation Spot A Secret

Where's Mayor Logan? That's what the city hall is wondering about. Mrs. Hallie Deemer, in the mayor's office, said on the day of his departure he had gone to Colorado Springs, Colorado. City Engineer Herpin said this morning he thought the mayor had gone to Arkansas. Commissioner Wade thinks he's over-journing in the "Cravish Mountains" of Louisiana. The mayor's family accompanied him on the trip.

No word has been received from Mayor Logan by members of the city commission. It was commented this morning.

"Don't blame him," said Commissioner Wade. "I'd want to get some place where I couldn't be bothered and have a real good vacation."

STOCK VACCINATED

Orange County Men Take Steps to Block Charbon Spread

Special to The News.
ORANGE, Texas, July 10.—To prevent carbon spreading among cattle in Orange county, stockmen in the western part of the county are vaccinating and saving many heads, they report.

A few shreds of stock have been reported this week in Donnan's Wood settlement.

Alley Excavated

City teams are busy excavating the alley between Fourth and Procter streets, alongside the interurban station. When excavation is completed, concrete paving will be done by the Secret Construction company.

PARTY PRAISED BY NEWSPAPERS

G. O. P. Papers Join in Chant for Davis

ABILITY POINTED OUT

Hearst Among Few of Dissenting Voices

NEW YORK, July 10.—Democratic newspaper today are congratulating the party on its choice of John W. Davis, while such republican newspapers as the Washington Post and the New York Herald-Tribune agree as to the nominee's personal charm and ability.

Dissenting voices are few and far between. The New York American, owned by William R. Hearst, says: "The proud old, democratic party proposes to substitute the House of Morgan for the White House."

The New York World, which supported Al Smith, says: "Party Vindicated"

"Yesterday the democratic party vindicated popular government in America. To have concealed nothing, to have fought the battle to the bitter end, and then to have turned the leadership to a man of the quality of John W. Davis, is proof that the democratic party is fit to live, fit to govern and is worthy of the name."

The New York Times says: "He is the man best fitted at this time to reconstruct and reanimate his own party and to lead it with intelligence and vigor against the republicans."

CONDOLENCES

Communication Sent President on Son's Death

Condolence to President and Mrs. Coolidge on the death of their son, Calvin Jr., were wired Wednesday night following an adoption of resolutions of sympathy by the Reserve Officers' association in regular meeting Wednesday night.

The message as wired by Lieut. Col. C. H. Fitzgerald, president of the club follows: "His excellency, President of the United States, White House, Washington. The Port Arthur Chapter Reserve Officers' association extends to you and Mrs. Coolidge its deepest sympathy in your great bereavement."

CORSICANA IS SWEPT BY FIRE

$30,000 Damage Done in Business District

CORSICANA, Texas, July 10.—Approximately $30,000 damage was done by the blaze which swept through the business district of Corsicana, Tex., last night. Guests of the National hotel, which was damaged by the blaze were forced to flee in their night clothes. One woman was slightly bruised when she jumped from the second story of the hotel.

Origin of the fire is unknown.

Leaves to Attend Relative's Funeral

Word that his aunt, Mrs. E. J. G. Crowell, had died at her home in Seattle, Wash., was received this morning by P. E. Gifford who with his family will leave probably Friday night for Greenwich, Ohio, where Mrs. Crowell will be buried.

Gifford states he and family probably will be gone a week or 10 days.

ABANDONED

Weekly Luncheon of Citizens Club Called Off for Summer

Weekly luncheon meetings of the Citizens club have been called off during the summer months, and instead a monthly ladies night at an evening meeting will be held. The first of these ladies nights will be held about the middle of August, William Davis, president of the club, says. The night meetings will be held at the New Lakeside hotel.

During the latter half of July the Citizens plan a party at McWhorter's beach, Davis says. Details of the party have not yet been worked out.

CARTER AT HELM

New President to Take Charge of Lions Club Tomorrow

George Carter, new president of the Lions club, will be in charge of the program Friday noon at the Plaza and being a member man, advises he will "beat his timber," according to notices being mailed to members.

Formal installation of officers will be held and Secretary Paschal's convention report made.

RUNNING MATE

Standard Bearer Addresses Executive Session

POLICY ACCLAIMED

Bryan Faction Pledges Unrestrained Support

UNITED PRESS HEAD-QUARTERS, WASHINGTON, July 10.—Starting a vigorous movement to restore party harmony, John W. Davis, new democratic presidential nominee, went before his national committee here today.

Addressing them in executive session, he let them understand that all differences must be buried immediately, and that the party must be united for concerted action in the coming campaign.

The committee acclaimed him enthusiastically for his unprecedented action in making a direct appeal to them in their meeting which was called for the purpose of reconciliation under the new leadership.

And after Davis had concluded his running mate, Chas. W. Bryan, who led the anti-Davis faction in the convention, pledged an unrestrained support of himself, his brother, William J. Bryan, and all their followers for party unity.

The committee followed the desire of Davis and did not select a new chairman as in the usual custom. Adjournment was taken subject to the call of the present chairman, Cordell Hull.

BRYAN CHOSEN AFTER TWO OTHERS CHOSEN

Selection of Charles W. Bryan as the running mate of John W. Davis came early last night on the first ballot of the democratic convention after two other progressive candidates suggested for the place had flatly rejected the honor proffered them. Senator Walter of Montana was Davis' first choice; E. T. McCallister, second; and Robert La Follette, third.

Re-elected after two years, Davis was unwilling to accept any of the men who had been nominated formally at the convention. He met them at the door and gave his consent. It was necessary to place him in nomination and Harry B. Fiebert was rounded up to name him. Bryan himself told his sponsor to make his speech "short and snappy." Fiebert complied and the balloting began.

When Bryan was finally hit upon, Chairman Cordell Hull, Tom Taggart, Senator Pat Harrison and other leaders, bareheaded, rushed back to the garden to get Bryan's acceptance. He met them at the door and gave his consent. It was necessary to place him in nomination and Harry B. Fiebert was rounded up to name him. Bryan himself told his sponsor to make his speech "short and snappy." Fiebert complied and the balloting began.

W. F. JAMES, justice of the peace: "Of course Davis is all right. He wouldn't have the record he has if he weren't. Whether the democrats will win is another question."

ELGIN BLALOCK, attorney: "I was for Al Smith first and Davis second. Believe Davis is an ideal compromise man to heal the Smith-Albio embroglio."

A. L. BURGE, manager Chamber of Commerce and Shipping: "In Davis the democrats probably picked their brainiest man. He should be another Wilson in many respects."

RETAIL MERCHANTS' association: "I am neutral. Davis may run fast and he may limp. It's going to be a great contest."

J. E. GRAMMIER: "I think Coolidge will get back in."

J. O. HEHLIN: "I think they picked a republican ticket. I don't think the democrats stood much chance after the first week of their convention. They surely broke the world's record."

MRS. HALLIE DESMER: "Oh, I'm so tired of looking at the papers. I imagine William Jennings Bryan feels very much gratified at his being nominated vice president."

VERNON J. WISNER: "I'm a little bit disappointed that they didn't ask me about taking the vice presidential nomination. Don't see how they pulled such a bonhead."

C. A. LECOQ: "Well, I've got no kick coming. I believe they got a pretty good ticket after all."

B. H. WILLEY: "I haven't formed an opinion about Davis yet. I really don't know enough about the man."

WILLIAM DAVIS: "I won't vote for Davis—I'll vote for Calvin Coolidge. I have always been a republican for three square meals a day. But I don't see how the democrats can reconcile Davis and their platform. You know, the democrats have always stood for the 'peepul' and against 'Wall Street' and the vested interests, and Davis is a Wall street corporation lawyer."

MURDER CASES TO BE PROVED

Report Says Grand Jury Making Investigation

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, July 10.—The 6th district court grand jury met today and will meet again Friday morning, at which time they will again consider cases under adjournment. Duffin was given an exceptionally long list of witnesses to summon for service on Friday morning. The present grand jury is reported to be making an extensive investigation of four unsolved murders occurring in Beaumont in the past three years.

WOMAN BITTEN BY CIVIL CAT EXAMINED

AUSTIN, Texas, July 10.—A woman suffering from a civil cat bite, has been brought to the state Pasteur Institute for preventative treatment against hydrophobia. She came from Pandora. At the time she was attacked the woman was asleep in her house, the animal entered the house and climbed into the bed.

After casting half of the Illinois vote for Mayor Hylan of New York as a compliment, George E. Roosevelt, who cast New York's 90 votes solidly for Bryan. Then Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City whipped his delegates into line and the landslide went on.

RAINED

Port Arthur looked and looked in vain at the cloudy sky yesterday afternoon, but the rain just wouldn't come this far. A good rain was reported to have fallen at Nederland.

Thrilling Tale of Adventure Starts

"The Land of Forgotten Men," a thrilling story of adventure, love, and romance in the North woods, starts today in serial publication in The News. In this story there is a double struggle—the fight of men to survive in one of the world's most barren regions, and the equally desperate battle of two strong men of different blood for the woman that each loves well.

Don't forget to read the first installment in today's News.

$120,000 BLAZE GUTS DAISSETTA

Fire Starting From Lighting System Burns Block

Special to The News. DAISSETTA, July 9.—Fire which swept in its wake practically two entire business blocks and doing damage estimated at around $120,000, raged here for an hour Tuesday afternoon beginning at 5:30.

As far as can be learned the only origin was from an electric lighting system which went awry in the rear of the Bartlett-Hart pharmacy. A slow south wind was just enough impetus to sweep the flames from one building to another, leaving nothing but the postoffice in the two blocks fire path.

Frame Structure Burned. The fire was in the frame building section of town and only small inexpensive frame business houses were among the large number destroyed. The dry frame buildings were an inviting appetizer to the hungry flames which devoured them before anything could be done.

Following is a list and values of buildings saved:

List of Losses. Bartlett-Hart pharmacy, stock and fixtures valued at $10,000, total loss. Reichert Dry Goods company, stock valued at $15,000, total loss. Insurance $10,000.

Service Drug company, stock valued at $5,000, total loss. Insurance $4,000.

Jewelry store, operated by J. C. Lew, stock valued at $1,000, total loss.

Jewelry store, operated by B. E. Enghardt, stock valued at $2,500, loss estimated at $1,000. Approximately $1500 worth of jewelry in a safe here was saved.

Woods' Barber shop, $500 loss.

Stallings' Barber shop, $500 loss.

Dad Radley's shoe shop, $500 loss.

Parr Furniture company, stock saved.

Ferris & Ferris, No. 2, grocery, stock valued at $10,000; $5,000 loss; $5,000 saved.

Le & Bros. garage, $2500 loss.

Building, occupied by Mr. Thompson, $200 loss.

H. Bruges tailor shop, $500 loss.

Shoe hospital, operated by Mike Battush, fixtures and machinery valued at $3,000; total loss.

Craig's barber shop, $750 loss.

Field cafe, operated by M. J. Byrd, $2,000 loss.

Jordan hotel, domain parlor and soft drink stand, $1500 loss.

Jewelry store, operated by W. C. Hattress; stock consisting mainly of phonographs and records; valued at $2,000; total loss.

Byrd hotel, $1,000 loss.

Byrd garage, $500 loss.

Moyle hotel, $500 loss.

— So Be Careful

Which Taxi You Ride

Be careful when you hail a "taxi" for there is one operating in Port Arthur which charges at the rate of $17 a trip.

A sailor who left his ship at the Texas Company docks early in the afternoon and drank too much liquor found out last night.

The sailor was brought before Night Sergeant Knight about 11 at night on charges of drunkenness. About 3 the next morning crew members came 'round and got the sailor whose boat was to leave at daylight.

The sailor, still hazy, was brought out of his cell and told his fine would be $17.10. "That's alright, boy, I've saved the ride and 'preciate getting to bed but you charge pretty high for taxi here," he blubbered.

NEW STUDENTS REPORT EARLY

Prospects at Texas Plan to Hold Conference

AUSTIN, Texas, July 9.—New students of the University of Texas will be requested to come to Austin two days earlier than the regular matriculation period in September to attend a series of conferences on questions regarding registration, student self-government, the causes of failures of freshmen, ideals of the university, and other kindred subjects. The plan has been proposed by the general faculty of the university, according to an announcement of Dr. F. W. Simonds, secretary of the faculty.

SEVERAL CHANGES MADE IN REGISTRAR'S OFFICE

AUSTIN, Texas, July 9.—Several changes have recently been made in the staff of the office of registrar of the University of Texas. Miss Eula Annette Nagle, of Austin, has been appointed secretary to Registrar E. J. Matthews, succeeding Miss Katherine Brougher, resigned. C. D. Simmons of Austin, has been appointed editorial assistant, and Miss Winifred Burns of Austin, has been appointed recorder, succeeding Miss Mary Fennell, resigned.

SETS MARK AT 500 FOR P.A.B.C.

New Enrolling Secretary Here on the Job

Port Arthur college will have an enrollment of 500 at the end of the next six months. A. H. Chenier, new enrolling secretary, predicts.

Chenier has been in Port Arthur only a week but is already hard at work lining up plans to boost the attendance. Chenier came here from Tyler, where he was connected with Tyler Business college, a school boasting an annual enrollment in three terms of 4000 students.

"Business men are constantly demanding better trained help, and as I see this, I know that Port Arthur college will be there to supply the demand as it grows," Chenier said. The new official added that he had counted 43 Tyler students since coming here, showing Port Arthur college was unable to supply the demand.

High School Requirement. "Port Arthur college is just about the only business school requiring high school graduation or its equivalent for entrance," Chenier said. Because of this higher standard, Chenier feels the growing demand for better trained workers will fall with increasing heaviness on Port Arthur college.

Increased efficiency is now being sought at the college by a lengthening of class hours. Formerly classes were held from 8 o'clock in the morning until 2:30, but now classes will run through until 5 o'clock. This will enable completion of the course in six months, or two terms, instead of nine months.

PEOPLE DON'T ADMIRE ROUGH, PIMPLY SKIN

Before you can impress some one of the opposite sex enough to get them to share the happy state of love with you, you certainly must keep your appearance pleasing and attractive. Pimples, blotchy, eczemic skin seems ten times worse to strangers and new acquaintances. And even husbands, wives, parents and kin feel sorry for loved ones who suffer from such skin diseases.

The way to get rid of all these drawbacks to affection and devotion from dear ones is to use Black and White Ointment. Soap, like thousands of people are doing. They are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 3oz. size Black and White Ointment contains three times as much as the 1oz. size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv.

MYSTERY VEILS ATTACK ON MAN

Athens Resident in Critical State After Operation

ATHENS, Texas, July 10.—Athens residents here today were baffled by circumstances surrounding an attack and operation on Ransom Sullivan, 20, of Athens, LaRue, Wednesday. Sullivan was found on a lonely road near LaRue weak from loss of blood. He had been badly handled.

According to Sullivan's story, seven men captured him on the road and while five of them held him, two others, whom Sullivan said were named "Sullivan" and "Sullivan", operated on him.

The victim was unable to recognize any of his assailants and knew of no motive for the attack. Sullivan will recover, physicians said today.

CONGESTION

dent Edson of the K. C. S. told The News today. "We expect to make the main yards between Port Arthur and the docks, and this program will call for some five or six added tracks some more than a mile long."

To conserve new loop facilities as now existing will be used for storage purposes, Williams said.

In the scheme to obviate the Seventh street congestion, a loop will be constructed to lead from the south end to the switch tracks and the roundhouse.

This Williams said, will make the Seventh street crossing a through train throughout the day, passing on through without switching and train make-up delays.

The main yards will be constructed at what is known as Long's crossing, now with three tracks. This will be made into a long train yard where trains will be broken up, made up and started to destination. This improvement, Williams said, will cut out two main bottlenecks in the traffic and solve the problem in the matter of delays in forwarding of trains.

The new industrial track will run from Seventh street to Lake Shore Drive extension, in the neighborhood of the planning mill, and sites will be provided here for industries.

Docks Removal Report

Announcement of the expansion program definitely sets at rest rumors current for several months that the K. C. S. contemplated the removal of its roundhouse and terminals from Port Arthur.

"This idea is ridiculous," Williams said. "We are making permanent improvements. There will be no removals of any kind." Williams indicated that further improvements would be made in the future.

Along the new industrial track a train roadery is being provided to make all points along the line accessible. Some of the terminal yards also will be rearranged to coordinate with the new change, Williams said. Instead of the old dock lead, he said, a double track will be provided from the roundhouse to the yards.

One effect of the program when completed will be that present backing in and out at the K. C. S. station will be obviated, the loop track taking care of this in one direct movement, Williams said.

Viaduct Plan Abandoned

Railroad officials, it was rumored, after a thorough study of the situation found that it was impossible to construct a viaduct over the Seventh street crossing to reduce crossing dangers and permit of continuous switching and train make-up operations. Construction of the main yards at Long's crossing and utilization of the new industrial track for storage facilities, he reported, is the outcome of failure of the viaduct plan to lead itself to practical carrying out.

Lack of headway, or room for an approach to the viaduct, limited to half a block, whereas a block and a half at least would be needed prevented carrying out of the viaduct plan, it was reported.

who succeeded Davis as ambassador to London, in which Harvey writes: "If the democratic national committee has done as well in framing a platform as it has in selecting a candidate, the chances of the democratic party would be much brighter."

The New York Herald-Tribune calls Davis "an able citizen, unquestionably one of the three best considered by the convention."

"The nomination was born of optimism rather than of optimism," declares the Detroit Free Press, a strong supporter of the Coolidge administration in an editorial on the selection of John W. Davis as the democratic standard bearer.

"Possibly he is the best person who could have been selected for the first and main task that confronts him, the task of preventing a party split by serving the factionalists as well as the party as a whole."

"I had reached the point where my stomach simply felt raw," says Mr. Zacher, "I thought with me until I couldn't draw a deep breath and sharp pains around my heart caused me agony. I was so miserable I couldn't rest nights, and during the day I felt lifeless on my feet."

"I started taking Karnak when I read about the medicine, and it has put me in the pink of condition. I eat, sleep and work like my old self, and feel as fine as a fiddle in every way. I will gladly verify my statement to anyone who calls on me."

Karnak is sold in Port Arthur by Hart Drug Co., 448 Procter St.—Ad.

States Enter Fashion Field, Deserving Paris

By NEA Service

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Bonnie Paul Point—The United States government has entered the field of fashion.

No longer must American women turn to Paris for their modes. Through its bureau of home economics, department of agriculture, the government will instruct its representatives of the fair sex as to what's what in styles, how to buy their money's worth when they buy materials.

In charge of this new branch of federal activity is Miss Ruth O'Brien, recently appointed textile and clothing specialist of the home economics bureau.

Before her appointment she served for seven years as textile expert on the Iowa State college faculty.

New she is busy equipping and organizing a government textile laboratory.

Next fall she will start giving women throughout the country the benefit of her experience and expertise.

"It is naturally the policy of garment makers to change the styles as often as possible in order that women will keep on buying new clothes," she said.

"We cannot attempt to change this condition, it is feminine instinct to keep up with the styles."

Should Know Colors

"At the same time, women should be instructed in some of the basic principles of fashion, which are simple, the basic principles of art."

"They should know which colors and designs are fundamentally sound, and which are merely fads."

"Knowing that they can avoid throwing away their money on garments which in a few months, or even weeks, will look like oldies."

"In the matter of selling the quality of materials, no textile research has ever been carried on for the benefit of the housewife. It has all been done by clothing manufacturers and large clothing buyers."

"Our research will be to determine simple methods by which housewives can determine the quality of the fabrics they want to buy."

"The quality of any material depends upon its fiber, and the quality of the fiber is two-fold—chemical and physical."

"For example, take a piece of material declared. 'The democrats have nominated a pure man and a big one. The party is doing it so belatedly.'"

The Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman says:

"A son of the south like Woodrow Wilson, a resident of the north like Woodrow Wilson, and a citizen of the American republic like Woodrow Wilson, the presidential candidate of democracy is all but the fulfillment of the Wilson legend. It is doubtful if democracy, after all its travails, could have named a better candidate; it is certain that it could not have named a better man."

dates for state office have satisfied the outlined their stand to the political conference are:

1—Per capita tax apportionment for the public free schools of at least $15. Unanimous opposition to repeal of free text book law. Favor making each county an independent school district.

2—Favor constitutional amendment to provide for the elimination of the 35 cents ad valorem tax for general purposes. Favor an income, luxury, franchise, privilege, intangible and inheritance tax to make up the deficiency on account of the elimination of state ad valorem tax and the raise in the apportionment for public free schools. Favor exemption of farm and city homestead improvements and taxing undeveloped lands at least as high as developed lands of the same class.

Wash Insurance Change

3—Favor submission by 36th legislature of a constitutional amendment to people of Texas providing for the adoption of a state insurance plan, whereby the state itself shall underwrite all accident and death insurance claims resulting from accidents in industry coming under the provision of the present compensation law.

4—Favor consolidation of the marketing and warehouse department and livestock sanitary commission with the department of agriculture.

5—Favor amending the constitution so that hereafter the legislature shall have the power to give or to lend the credit of the state for the purchase and improvement of rural and urban roads.

6—Demands the outright repeal of the "infamous open port law."

7—Favor an amendment to the constitution abolishing the poll tax qualification of electors.

DR. THOMPSON NAMED ON U. S. HEALTH BODY

Dr. J. D. Thompson was named consulting physician on eye, ear, nose and throat cases yesterday afternoon by Dr. T. J. Liddell of the United States public health service.

All government marine cases needing eye, ear or throat attention coming to Dr. Liddell's attention will be turned over to Dr. Thompson.

WATER BILLS TOTALLED $7,341.32 FOR MONTH

Water bills rendered by the city June 30 for June totaled $7,341.32, while sewer bills amounted to $8,000.65, according to notation given the city commission this morning.

The bureau was received 11 votes when New York children were polled on to choose an official school tree.

A 'BROKEN OUT' FACE HOLDS YOU BACK

Many men and women of middle age feel that they have never had a chance to make anything out of themselves. But the main reason for it usually is that they let such things as pimples, rash, "breakouts," eczema, freckles, etc., on their face, neck, hands or arms, make them feel that they are not wanted around and they keep to themselves too much.

You can get just as much out of life as anyone. All you need is confidence in yourself, which you get naturally when you rid yourself of these skin troubles. If you just use Black and White Ointment, and Soap. They are economically priced in generous packages. All dealers have them both. The 50c size of the Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size.—Adv.

PLAYERS SCORE BIG HIT HERE

Company Most Talented to Come to City

With a dramatic company that far surpasses anything which has yet come to Port Arthur, fully equipped to present the most appetizing type of plays, and exhibiting only the latest successes, the Port Arthur Players, now showing at the Airline, is scoring an unusual hit here.

Last night to a somewhat disinterested but very appreciative audience, the players presented Jack Light's "Help Wanted," a play of five acts which is unusually attractive. It scored an unique hit with its auditors.

New Play Tonight

Tonight, beginning for a three-night run at the Airline, DeWitt Newlin's "The Mountain" will be the attraction with attractive, appealing little Miss Mae Park in the title role.

Miss Park has a pleasing, winning stage personality, and her winning smile, appealing voice and almost incomparable impersonations, win her auditors from curtain to curtain.

Actors All Talented

Richard Irving, who usually plays leading man, Cash Tomlinson, Frank Maddocks, Don Mitchell, Lewis Ostrander, Jerry Clarendon, Edith Dealing and Steve Stewart, all will be presented tonight in clever roles in "Dawn of the Mountains." Tomlinson, as Gerald R. Scott, in "Help Wanted," played an incomparable role; his acting is perfect. Ostrander, Jerry Clarendon, Steve Stewart, Maddocks and Irving are particularly deserving of mention, and as actors, they vie favorably with the famous characters who last season presented "The Circus" to Port Arthur theatergoers amidst a round of appreciation at the ELKS.

Port Arthur has in the Port Arthur Players the most talented crew of actors that has come to this city, and their presentations are bringing something classical to the local footlights.

INHERITANCE TAXES SOUGHT BY STATE

AUSTIN, Texas, July 10.—The state is in process of collecting $200,000 inheritance taxes from estates. Liability for the tax is admitted the negotiations being as to value of estates. One is that of P. A. Chapman of Waxahatchie, estimated at $3,500,000 with tax liability of about $115,000, and the other William Buchanan of Texarkana estimated at $2,127,236 calling for tax of approximately $85,000.

SESRIOUSLY CUT

One Man Shot During Lake Charles Free-for-All Fight

LAKE CHARLES, La., July 10.—Bruce Broussard is in a sanitarium here with a bullet wound in his leg and Fritz Goodrich is so seriously cut by a pocketknife that he could not be moved, outgrowth of an affray at the Ged oil field. A third man, L. E. Sanier, is being held under $500 bond in connection with the affair.

According to Standler he intervened and shot Broussard when he saw Broussard cutting Goodrich.

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, July 10.—Today's market reviewed the seeming paradox of giving evidence of internal strength through the treasury weakness which appeared in the various issues at certain stages of the session. In the morning, when public utility stocks were indulging in one of the most violently bullish attacks seen in many months, the volume of dealings was swollen to about 500,000 shares in two hours.

The active industries were examples of the earlier tone which prevailed through the last hour. American Can sold off to 114 1/2, a loss of 14 points from its early high, and recoupled to 115 1/2. Leaders were about in preparation.

In a number of issues, however, the rising tendency was maintained. Nickel Plate was an outstanding feature among the railroads, reaching a further record high at 89.

ERROR IN BILL STOPS TRIAL

Woman Victim's Name Is Misspelled

Special to The News

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 10.—A faulty grand jury indictment, officials said, was responsible for F. E. Nichols and H. D. Moore, former county peace officers, being freed yesterday on charges of extortion. The grand jury indictment charged that Lucy Groves had been the injured party in an extortion case, but when she went on the stand yesterday morning stated her name was Grogan, and Judge Campbell ruled that the case could not be tried. There will be no further action unless another grand jury indictment is returned.

JURY ACQUITS GAS DEALER IN LAW TEST

Special to The News

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 10.—A jury in the Beaumont city corporation court reversed a court of criminal appeals ruling this morning when they found J. H. Jones, local garage man, not guilty on a charge of violating a state law for selling gasoline on Sunday.

Several weeks ago a warning was given all gasoline dealers that they would be arrested if they sold gasoline on Sunday in violation of the state law. Jurymen who sat on the case this morning stated that the state law provided that no goods could be sold on Sunday, but it did not particularly specify filling stations. The court of criminal appeals has held however, that it is a violation of state laws.

Whether other gasoline stations will continue to operate on Sundays is not known now. A number of interested dealers were in court this morning but did not state whether or not they would continue to remain open. City Attorney J. B. Morris closed would not make a statement, but said he would look up further law on the subject and also consult with local dealers to see whether or not they would voluntarily close on Sunday.

FIRST ABSENTEE BALLOON FILLED

Affidavits sworn to before a notary public are due to be filed with the county clerk from now until July 15, and thereafter before the county clerk himself until July 23. No absentee affidavits will be received after that date.

IF BILIOUS, SICK! TAKE NO CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lousy, dully and all knuckled out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated, breath bad, stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work. Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel craters into our bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the most genial, health and bowel cleansing you've ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful, full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your child, too.—Adv.

To win new friends

100 Lucky Strikes — TAX FREE

We invite every smoker in this city to take advantage of this startling offer.

We've told you about Lucky Strike superiority.

Your friends have told you. Now know for yourself the value of the toasting process!

We make this proposition to win new friends:

The regular price of a tin of 100 Lucky Strikes is 75¢

You pay the dealer only 45¢

We pay the Government Tax of 30¢

Act quickly, as the dealer's allotment at this price is limited.

Get one tin [only one to a person] for home or for office.

The regular price will be in effect when the dealer's supply on this offer is sold.

Smoke these 100 Lucky Strikes Then you'll know how the 45-minute toasting process adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Co.
INCORPORATED

LUCKY STRIKE

Cleanliness and Care in Manufacture

Every Lucky Strike factory is a model of sanitation. Read how Alfred W. McCann, the noted food expert describes one of our factories: "White walls and ceilings, floors as clean as freshly chiseled marble, cutting machines and wrapping machines that take away from the human hand all detail and leave nothing to the human supervision but the watchfulness of trained eyes."

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

WE call particular attention to the statements made in the advertisement adjoining this editorial column.

This advertisement, the purpose of which is to win new friends for Lucky Strike cigarettes, incidentally emphasizes the matter of high taxes on cigarettes.

To those who are intimate with such matters there is, of course, no surprising statement made.

To the general public, though, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

So nearly fifty cents out of every dollar you spend for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last (fiscal) year it amounted to $309,014,050.84.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,715,735.93, or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

The immediately important point of the foregoing is the following: We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public generally appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins New Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it sensationally generous so as to attract attention.

We are not giving money away for the offer accomplishes its purposes: Lucky Strike "Wins New Friends." Our volume increases.

Super-quality

It is only by immense volume that we can produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly, extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobaccos that are used in Lucky Strikes.

We urge you to participate in this offer—we want you to get acquainted with Lucky Strikes.

We know a trial will make you a permanent customer of ours.

The Editorial Mind

In New York

NEW YORK, July 10.—This is one of those tragedies of Broadway that can't be told with names.

A broken old woman tottered into the lobby of one of those exclusive hotels on the upper reaches of the famous thoroughfare of broken promises and broken hearts.

The old woman was a dash of the style of many periods of the past. It included bright green hose.

With toothless interest she gazed at a wedding reception, looking longingly at a flower-like girl receiving the congratulations of scores of fashionably-dressed guests.

A bellboy snickered. "They say she's her daughter," he confided pointing toward the bag and the bride-to-be.

Inquiry revealed the story. The old woman was once the pampered darling of a wealthy man. He sent her child to France to be educated and brought home only when a husband had been chosen for her.

Meanwhile the mother, ruined by drugs and drink, was cast aside, forgotten even by her daughter, who never really knew her.

The beauty of yesterday started dully from her background seat, awhile—then slipped unobtrusively away.

The daughter never will know.

One of the most modern sights seen on picturesque lower Third Avenue during a stroll one evening was two elderly men of foreign birth, with whiskers drooping to their waists, smoking American cigarettes.

I watched them puff for 15 minutes, feeling that an opportunity to summon a nearby fire department would be represented. But there was no fire—only smoke.

Westover Court is an apartment building between 43rd and 44th streets on Broadway that rarely is noticed.

Yet there are 104 apartments in the building and in them have lived numerous prominent authors and actors.

The entrance is on the side streets and the complex air of unidentified mystery about the place which is for men only.

Men have written great books and composed songs and music that made them wealthy in this haven in the midst of Broadway's glitter—yet completely apart from it.

Harry Bruno, a publicist, lives there. I often visit him. The place is so quiet and old-fashioned I always feel like Romeo must have felt the night he threw stones at Juliet's balcony.

The younger generation of the foreign population no longer grows up to be bootblacks and banana barkers. On one side of the street of a lane in the foreign quarter last night a jazz band was practicing with real vim and vigor. On the other side three young men were practicing acrobatic stunts on a roof.

It's vanderbilt actors they all want to be.

There is a well-appointed store on expensive Fifth Avenue where nothing but dolls are sold.

It has the appearance and atmosphere of a nursery.

Mechanical dolls walk and cry, beg for "mama," walk, sleep, dance. They do most everything a real baby does—except eat, and their whimpers can be automatically halted.

There are two flapper dolls, sophisticated miniatures, who have bobbed hair, exotic raiment—and who have the nervous eyes of a grown-up vampire. They also puff perfumed cigarettes, throwing off a scent far more alluring than the most penetrating oriental incense.

The shop is patronized by more men than women.

One doll—an exact replica of a week-old infant—never fails to attract sympathetic attention. It's tiny brow is wrinkled in a cholee free, from half-closed eyes tears of distress seem ready to pour, fire are clenched in a strained effort to save off the ordeal. The doll is positively human in its artistic suffering.

It was lying in an attractive crib when I was inspecting the shop during an afternoon stroll. The surroundings had been created with motherly precision.

A middle-aged woman came into the store. She wore the garb of a mourner. With maternal intuition she went to the baby—which seems always about to cry—but never will because the breath of life cannot be breathed into artificial clay by mortals.

She picked up the doll, caressed it to her breast—then partially collapsed. After she became composed, she purchased the doll and left the store.

She is a wealthy widow from a small town in central Pennsylvania, who recently lost both her husband and infant son, I am told.

The artist who created the realistic doll is a bachelor.

The wisest horse of mythology, Pegasus, not only leaves our imagination. A breeding horse has been shipped by airplane from Paris to Amsterdam.

Mythology represented the things the ancients considered humanly impossible.

Our generation accomplishes what once seemed impossible. A Greek god hurling thunderbolts has his counterpart in a modern scientist producing artificial lightning, a million volts, in a laboratory.

Groans from "railroads" because they paid national and state taxes of over $900,000 a day in 1923, or three times as much as before the war.

The railroads don't really pay this. The public pays. Railroads are simply collectors for Uncle Sam and the states. This is the fly in the ointment, to critics who delight to have the roads heavily taxed.

DEMOCRACY CHOOSES ITS GREATEST MIND; WILL 1912 REPEAT ITSELF?

The democratic party has selected its greatest mind to represent it in the three-cornered presidential race to be decided in November. It seems incredible that out of the mistakes of the past two weeks at New York such a selection as that of John W. Davis could have been made.

Even the enemies of Davis and of the clients he represents have admitted that Davis is the best equipped man for the presidency in all these United States. The single objection that prevented him from being the choice of the party in the opening ballots was the fact that as a lawyer he has represented the so-called Morgan interests.

What of it? It would be an insult to the intelligence of the Morgan banking firm to suppose that it would hire any other than the best legal talent. A single mistake by the chief attorney of such interests often means the loss of millions of dollars. Thus, the Morgan connection is in itself a guarantee of the legal and mental ability of the democratic candidate.

There is also a most definite guarantee that Davis is an American citizen, first, last and all the time. For Davis both in West Virginia and New York has represented organized labor as its attorney. He worked so well for organized labor that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was reported repeatedly during the long convention as in favor of the nomination of Davis. A third sure guarantee of the quality of Davis, the man, is shown in the fact that the tens of thousands of attorneys represented in the American Bar Association have honored Davis by making him its president. Thus Davis, the youngest of the candidates before the convention, was ultimately selected as its nominee because the delegates decided after all that their job was to place before the American people the party's best-equipped person for the business of being president. Such a man is Davis, who has achieved the age of 50, the headship of his profession and who has served with equal honor and ability the organized workers of America and the organized wealth of America.

The fact that Davis, within little more than a quarter of a century of manhood could have reached such a position from a comparatively obscure origin in the politically unimportant state of West Virginia is in itself an inspiration and proof that brains in America still may reach the top along strictly honorable lines.

Davis was nominated after a most bitter religious controversy. He took no part in it. Davis was nominated following a most vicious attack by W. J. Bryan who labeled him the candidate of Wall Street. Davis did not reply. Davis was nominated in face of a wet and dry fight within the party. He ignored it.

Thus the democratic party out of the turmoil has selected a candidate who can heal all wounds of the party except the wound of the disappointment of certain candidates who wanted the job. The quadrennial battle is now on—Davis, Coolidge and LaFollette.

Can there be any doubt but that the story of "1912" is about to be repeated? Coolidge is in the position of Taft. LaFollette a somewhat lesser Roosevelt breaking into the vitals of the republican west. And Davis inherits the same political situation which resulted in the Wilson victory of "1912."

Louise Lorraine, a motion picture actress, has been divorced from a California business man. He made the discovery that advertising did not pay.

IS THERE AN OIL TRUST?

Attorney General Parian Fiske Stone, a republican, has brought suit against thirty-nine producing and refining companies making the direct accusation that the concerns constitute an oil trust. Among the companies sued is the Pure Oil company.

Beman G. Davies is its president. He is the brother of Charles G. Davies, republican nominee for vice president of the United States and Charles G. is said to be a heavy stockholder in the company. Among the concerns sued is the Standard Oil company of California. Its president has entered a sweeping denial that his company has entered into any agreement for the control of prices.

Calvin Coolidge made Harlan Fiske Stone attorney general of the United States. Stone stepped in when Harry M. Daugherty stepped out. Is this campaign to have its trust busting features? If so is petroleum without a friend in high place?

New York newspapers say that Newton D. Baker made the most wonderful speech of his career. He did and then the convention defeated his plan by a vote of three to one. His oratory lost its punch!

Advance Styles In Women's Fall Shoes Show Heavier Leather and Simple Lines

THE styles in footwear which American women will follow next autumn are being received by local shops, these styles having been shown at the first fall showing of shoes in New York City recently.

One of the striking features of the display was the fact that women's shoes are to be made of heavier leather next autumn and are to be cut along more simple lines. Incidentally, the lower heel was much in evidence, high heels being conspicuous by their absence.

Black is the most popular color for shoes at present and this applies both to pumps and ties worn with street and afternoon costumes. Advance fall models indicate that tan Russian leather of a shade far lighter than any seen in recent years, will be the favorite.

The rogue of the satin and fabric shoes appears to have passed. Instead, patent leather and highly polished glazed leather have been used to fashion pumps whose durability, coupled with distinction, makes them instant favorites. The girl who formerly insisted upon wearing satin pumps with her business suit will be conspicuous if she persists in such bad form next autumn.

Shoe designers have fashioned the new footwear with short ramps and evenly rounded toes, following somewhat on the lines of the shoes which the fashion designers create for their petticoats. The unusual thickness of the soles of the oxfords designed for walking and sports wear drew attention.

For sports both suede and calf were shown. The shoes designed for women golfers who really play themselves on their game had leather soles with cleats attached to prevent slipping. Some lovely Russian calf riding boots, very highly polished and exceedingly smart, attracted much attention.

For evening wear, brilliant rhinestone buckles, many of square colonial pattern, were shown. When high heels were necessary they were of modified spanish or French design. However, these slightly higher heels were only for the most formal occasions.

The shoe men are endeavoring to help the woman who wants to be well dressed. They are designing shoes for sport wear, for afternoon and for formal and informal evening functions. To add to the joy of the women they are making shoes as comfortable as possible, building them so that they conform more nearly to the foot than have any of the fashionable shoes that have made their appearance in recent years.

If the style educators persist in making women's shoes both smart and comfortable, there is likely to be a revival of walking in this country, at least as far as women are concerned.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORS TO HAVE SWIM AT NAT

The Christian Endeavors of the Congregational church will hold a delightful swim at the Plaza Nat this evening.

The young people will meet at the church promptly at 6:30 o'clock and go to the Nat in a body. Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Weidner will chaperone the party.

All Endeavors of the Congregational church are cordially invited to participate in the swim.

Y. G. CLUB ENTERTAINED

Lora Mae McLeod entertained the Y. G. Sewing club Wednesday afternoon at her home, 641 Thomas boulevard.

Sewing and games were enjoyed and in a delightful contest Laura Guidry won the first prize and the booty fell to Elma Guidry. Delicious refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Those enjoying the occasion were Helen Benjaminson, Mary Peck, Elma Guidry, Anna Benjaminson, Laura Guidry, Mildred Monton, and Lora Mae McLeod.

Mildred Mouton will entertain the club next week at her home, 729 Eleventh street.

MRS. WALKINSHAW RETURNS HOME
Mrs. O. O. Walkinshaw has returned to her home in Houston after a brief stay at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Dumessil. Mrs. Walkinshaw will be remembered as Miss Roberta Dumessil.

TATAPUCHONS ENTERTAINED

Members of the Tatapuchon Camp Fire were pleasantly entertained yesterday afternoon by Mary Litherland at her home, 2318 Fifth street.

During the afternoon Ellen Dorsey and Charley Mae Abington talked on some of the Camp Fire principles and plans were made for the big ceremonial in Port Neches park next week. Refreshments were offered by the hostess after the business session.

Those in attendance were Katherine Hunt, Clara Mae Richardson, Ethel Johnson, Virginia Ashbire, Gladys Sims, Johanna Ruysenars, Ellen Dorsey, Helen Johnson, Charley Mae Abington, Mary Litherland, Adelaide Richardson, Jane Litherland, Mrs. C. W. Litherland and Mrs. R. L. Rutan.

On next Wednesday Helen Johnson and Gladys Sims will serve luncheon to the Tatapuchon girls in order that they may complete their requirements for the rank of firekeepers. The luncheon will be served at the First M. E. Church, South.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORS TO HAVE PICNIC AT PARK

The Christian Endeavors of the First Presbyterian church will entertain with picnic at Port Neches park this evening. The Endeavors will assemble at the church at 6:30 o'clock and go to Port Neches where they will enjoy a delightful outing.

Mrs. Van Eman Complimented With Bridge

One of the most delightful and interesting social events of the week having as inspiration a charming out-of-town guest was the recently appointed bridge yesterday afternoon arranged in compliment to Mrs. Ned Van Eman of Tulsa, Okla., and having as hostess Mrs. Riley McFadden at her home, 1905 Proctor street.

Bowls of lovely summer blossoms brought beauty and fragrance in their decorations of the home and bridge table, their dainty buds reflecting a motif of pink and orchid which was used with pretty effect in all details of the gracious hospitality.

Mix tables of players were assembled to honor Mrs. Van Eman, and in the games Mrs. A. M. Armstrong scored high, receiving a handsome trophy and Mrs. W. Warren cut consolation. Mrs. Van Eman was presented with a lovely gift as a special souvenir from her hostess. A dainty ice course, featuring the pink and orchid theme, was offered at the close of the games.

The personnel of players in addition to Mrs. Van Eman included Mrs. J. L. Travecek, Miss Editha Davis, Mrs. W. F. Gerken, Mrs. W. D. McFadden, Mrs. Walter Tate, Mrs. John Noble, Mrs. J. M. Latham, Mrs. Marian Harle, Mrs. A. M. Armstrong, Mrs. J. H. Denney, Mrs. F. G. McFadden, Mrs. Gene Gilford, Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mrs. H. M. Heffner, Mrs. Fred Timmons, Mrs. M. E. Crawford, Mrs. M. S. Warren, Mrs. A. S. Bailey, Mrs. C. E. Yates, Mrs. C. E. Abber, Mrs. N. M. Nelson, Mrs. Phillips of Houston and Mrs. R. McFadden.

Algonquins Entertain With Dance

Among the pleasing affairs of the week that has assisted in enlivening the summer season for members of the younger set was the delightful dance given by the Algonquins last evening at the home of Arthur LeBlanc near the Beaumont road on Island's Bend.

The large living room and parlor were thrown together, forming a spacious room for dancing. Fifty guests enjoyed the pleasures of the evening, inspirational music for dancing being furnished by the Solo Trio orchestra, comprised of Mrs. Salde Wineson, piano, and Messrs. Eugene Westcott, saxophone; Waldo Wheeler, banjo, and Johnny Bamert, drums. During the intermission period a watermelon course was served on the lawn of the LeBlanc home. Punch was served throughout the evening.

Among those enjoying this delightful affair were Mrs. E. H. Wilkison, Mrs. E. D. Bernard and Mrs. Anna Fontenot, who received the guests, and Misses Clyde McConnathy, of South Park, Maxine Kuhlman, Florida, Myrtle Pendhorne, Pauline Aiken, Myrtle Pendhorne, Pauline Aiken, Lila Mae Smith, Misses Pearl McNeil, Elva Marston, Charles McNeil, Willie Scott, Vanda Allen, Oscar Carroll, and Dorothy Allen; and Messrs. Nomination of J. W. Davis Blow to William J. Bryan

NEW YORK CITY, July 10.—The nomination of John W. Davis was the crowning blow to William Jennings Bryan. The commoner opposed Davis as a reactionary and a wet. He did his utmost to prevent his nomination, but when the tide set in today, Bryan was helpless.

"I have nothing to say," said the commoner after the nomination. "I doubt if I shall have anything to say."

Later he stepped into the United Press headquarters to announce that he would support Davis. "I will support the ticket," said Bryan. The commoner was tired and worn from his efforts during the convention.

Joseph Daniels, former secretary of the navy, said: "It is a magnificent nomination. In ability, public service and character, John W. Davis typifies real Americanism. He will appeal to the people and will grow every day in popularity. He will be elected in November."

"It is a fine nomination," said Tom Tamm, "and it solves the situation. There may be some criticism of Mr. Davis because he is attorney for a big banking house, but if I were in business I'd get the biggest and best lawyer I could find. I think the democratic party wants the biggest man it can find."

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."

Mrs. J. A. HOLFORD, Box 43, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of these troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

SHOWS TOMATO WEIGHING POUND

G. W. Orne Has Prize-Winning Crop

Raising large-sized tomatoes is the specialty of G. W. Orne, 2119 Thirteenth street, and he brought in one of his crop yesterday afternoon to the Necha office to prove it. The tomato, a ripe, red specimen, weighed exactly one pound.

Orne, who is a Gulf refinery employee, says the way to raise tomatoes is to prune the stalks. Thirty tomato stalks in his garden are up to his shoulders, Orne says, and are several inches in diameter. Orne came to Port Arthur from LaFollet, and was reared in the tomato country about Alto.

QUIET CROWD AWED BY DEATH

Home Town Pays Final Tribute to Youth

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 10.—The Coolidge were among their own people today. They have brought their dead son home.

The presidential special which has borne the body of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., from Washington, arrived here at 7 o'clock this morning with the executive family, a dozen intimate friends and the members of the cabinet aboard.

Half Northampton met the train at the station—a quiet crowd awed by the tragedy which has visited the city's one time mayor, and yet curious to see the imposing corps of state officials who escorted him here.

They peered timidly at the long line of coaches as the duty train drew in. But if only half Northampton greeted the Washington special, all Northampton prepared for the funeral. It was held at Edwards Congregational church at 9 a. m. A thousand flags hung at half mast; store windows showed drawn shades; the town fathers have decreed this a day of mourning.

Flowers were banked high at the church at an early hour. The doors were open to all and even before the body of young Coolidge had been moved from the station, the townspeople had begun to fill the pews.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge rose before the train entered the station after passing a tearfully good night.

They had retired shortly after leaving Baltimore last night in an effort to gain strength for the day's ordeal. Together with their elder son, John, they were quartered in the final coach of the train.

Intimate Friends Attend
Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, intimate friends of the president's family and James E. Couper, White House physician, share the same car. Mrs. Coolidge showed sharp lines of weariness in her face today.

Breakfast was served to the family in their car. Shortly afterward

The Tangle

Letter From Mrs. John Alden Prescott to Priscilla Bradford, Continued
"But surely, Leslie," I said to her when she complained of her husband's selfishness, "you cannot begin to teach a child before it can talk to be selfish."

"You certainly can," answered Leslie. "The new theory in child training is to begin immediately, not only with physical but with mental and moral discipline. It is not from my being stern with little John that he is thinking now that he is abused" (little John at this moment was howling at the top of his voice) but it is because of your own selfishness in not considering what is best for him in your desire to hold him in your arms and rock him to sleep.

"As for my not doing the same with a child that I had borne myself, I want to assure you that I would make no difference in my duty toward any child when I consider my particular responsibility."

With that, Leslie left the room, and shortly after, Miss Anderson came and took me to my apartment. Although Miss Anderson did this very diplomatically, saying she was afraid I would be disturbed by little Jack's screams and cries, I am sure that Leslie told her that she must come after me.

I never thought, dear Priscilla, that Leslie could be so hard. I can see now that she will always have her own way even if the heavens were joined by William J. Butler, of Boston, chairman of the republican committee and Henry F. Long, secretary to the president when he was governor of Massachusetts.

The funeral train made good time on its journey through Baltimore, Philadelphia, the New Jersey cities and New York. The schedule had been advanced to avoid curious eyes and making the trip as private as possible.

J. Northampton is well pleased for the occasion. Main streets were kept clear for the funeral procession.

The casket was moved shortly before 9:30 and taken direct to the Edwards Congregational church. A marine guard marched behind.

BRAZIL EAGERLY AWAITING NEWS

Revolutionists Driven Back From Stronghold

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 10.—News was eagerly awaited here today of the final defeat of the military rebels which have held a part of the city of Sao Paulo since last Saturday.

It was expected the remaining rebel position would fall today if it had not yet been captured.

"Legal troops met against the rebels in Sao Paulo now are in full operation with the supreme command perfectly organized," says the latest official communication.

"The situation of the insurrection has become more and more critical. Normal communication between the city of Sao Paulo and Santos has been restored and there is nothing to interfere with free movement of the people in the district.

Railway Lines Broken

"The lines of the Central de Brazil railway (connecting Rio de Janeiro with Sao Paulo) were interrupted between Mogi and Sao Paulo but have been re-established and the entire system is in operation again practically on normal basis.

"The Luz military barracks is the only point in Sao Paulo left in the hands of the enemy."

GOUGHAM LEADER GIVES SUPPORT

Davis Extends Olive Branch As Ballots End

NEW YORK, July 10.—Discordant forces of the democratic party which fought bitterly for more than two weeks were called together today to plan a united campaign for John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, the nominees who emerged victorious from the unprecedented struggle.

The national committee met in the Waldorf Hotel to organize behind its newly chosen leaders and north over that were opened in the 10-day convention.

Davis himself extended the olive branch to the leaders who had fought him and in his first pronouncement after his nomination called upon the party to unite.

The accession of the brother of William J. Bryan to second place in the new democratic national ticket is planned to close the rift between the commoner and Davis. Religious differences which were so bitterly fought out were hidden behind the all of the past and all the successful candidates gave assurances in varying degrees of co-operation.

X-CANADIANS RETURN HOME

People Left When Farm Crops Failed

HALIFAX, N. S., July 10.—Canadians who have lived in the New England states for years are returning to their former homelands in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, according to a report of the Maritime Colonization Development Association.

More than a decade ago when money was to be made on farms of good wages were offered in the stories of New England there was a crowd of people, especially of each extraction, across the international boundary from the maritime provinces. Now that farm homes are bought cheaply and good profits are to be made from the land, exiles are coming back. Many settlers are being located on lands by the colonization association.

Carey Has Thrilling Role

"The Lightning Rider," which the Strand Theatre is showing today gives Harry Carey a splendid opportunity to show how versatile he is, because he has a dual characterization. He plays, before the villagers, he is "show Phil Moran," who finds all his excitement in whittling dolls for children, but at night he becomes the fearless man of action, scouring the country to find the Black Mask, the bandit who is the bane of the country.

To draw the fire of the outlaw, Phil dresses like him. He makes love to his lady fair in the interesting garden, and when the lady's father is murdered, Phil finds himself in a rather tight hole. It is in such and other situations as thrilling that make "The Lightning Rider" first-rate entertainment. The suspense is sustained throughout and there is plenty of rapid-fire action.

Unlike the usual "western," "The Lightning Rider" has vivid interiors as well as beautiful exterior shots. The photography throughout is excellent.

Virginia Brown Faire, a dark beauty of the Spanish type is a most alluring leading woman. Others in Carey's supporting cast are Thomas G. Lingham as the sheriff, Leon Barry as the real Black Mask, Frances Ross as his associate, and Miss Sul Le Wan and Bert Hadler.

DAWN OF THE MOUNTAINS

Tonight will mark the opening of the last half of the week's offering at the Garden Airdome and judging from the indications the play of "Dawn of the Mountains" will be greeted by a packed house, for already the company is jumping into popularity, and those who come out once come again and again, and are always ready for the change of play.

Nothing has been so undone in this play of the Virginia mountains, and it will be started in every detail just as it was offered to the public for a long successful run at the Longacre Theatre in New York City.

The little leading lady, Miss Park, will have an excellent chance to display some real character acting in the part of Dawn, and every other member of the cast will have a chance as well.

The management has received much praise for bringing this wonderful company of players into the city for the balance of the summer and it is said that during the balance of the run from now until October the theatre goes of Port Arthur will have an opportunity of seeing some of the best and latest plays at a price within the reach of all.

STUDIES HUMAN NATURE

There are probably very few people who have never had the privilege of seeing Harold Lloyd in at least one of his successful comedy hits, "Grandma's Boy," "Dr. Jack," "Safety Last," or "Why Worry?"

But still, in spite of his world wide popularity, very few people outside of his family know intimately the spectacular comedian whose latest feature Pathcomedy, "Girl Shy," has been held over through Saturday at the Cameo theatre.

Lloyd is one of the few screen performers who intensely dislike to be recognized in public, for one thing.

"About two years ago my hands and arms broke out with little, red pimples that were very sore. They itched badly, causing me to scratch and irritate the skin so much so that I could not stand my arms. I could not touch my arms. I could not put my hands in water and was unable to do my regular work for about two weeks.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two or three days I could see an improvement. I purchased more and in three weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Gladys Bowman, R. 4, Box 25, Johnson City, Tenn.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum helps to prevent skin troubles.

WHITE FLOGGING CASE DISMISSED

Principal Witnesses Fail to Appear in Court

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 9.—Due to lack of evidence and the fact that the principal witnesses would not appear in court, the case against Fred White, city attorney of Port Arthur, as principal in a whipping case and other Port Arthur men named as accomplices was dismissed this morning in 60th district court by Judge J. D. Campbell.

White and eight other men included C. B. Hightower, Lee Noel, M. B. Bailey, J. W. Sandefur, Earnest Broadway, J. R. Davis, W. W. Corington and L. J. Byrnes all appeared in court and announced ready and even went further and tried in every day to bring the case to trial.

Indictments Returned

All were indicted by the 60th district court grand jury several months ago in connection with the whipping of Carl and Clay Dunn in Port Arthur. The two men were knocked unconscious near the city hall at Port Arthur, later taken out in the vicinity of the Atlantic refinery and beaten severely. They were given seven days in which to leave town. They were brought back to town by passing automobiles.

That in itself is remarkable, for few of the silent drama stars wish to shun the adulation of the street mob. Lloyd is by nature bashful, retiring, modest. Once known in public he becomes diffident, ill at ease. "They think Harold Lloyd should say smart things and do stunts upon the chandelier," he explains. "I can't, and I hate to disappoint people."

Harold is a close student of human nature and sees humor where others see only the tragic. He is in reality a combination of pranks and seriousness. While actually at work he is as serious as anyone could be, but the minute that work stops he is full of pranks. He has kept himself from becoming conceited by the thought that perhaps he is no so good as people think he is.

Laura La Plante's First Vehicle

From a scenic viewpoint, Johnson's lake in Pasadena, California, is beautiful. Its water is clear and the surrounding palms and pepper trees are like a picture vividly across its placid surface.

But to Laura La Plante, Universal star, the pretty little lake is as murky as the Slough of Despond. To Edward Hearn it's worse than that. Both admit it will be a long time before they forget it.

Miss La Plante plays the starring role in "Excitement," her first feature under her new contract with Universal, and Hearn plays the romantic lead with her. The picture has its first local showing today and tomorrow at the Liberty theatre.

A scene was being filmed in which they were riding on a motorcycle. Miss La Plante driving. As she

Could Eat Nothing But Raw Eggs

Wife Suffered Ten Years From Two Operations. Took Gen-Lax, the Super-Laxative Tonic. "Can Now Eat Anything."

"My wife suffered from stomach trouble, sick headache, and indigestion. She could not eat anything but raw eggs. Finally I bought a bottle of Gen-Lax and persuaded her to take it. Sick headaches stopped and she can now eat anything. She is in the best of health and has gained 25 pounds."

So writes Mr. J. J. Norfleet, 1230 Kentucky Ave., Memphis. He says that Gen-Lax is as standard in his house as sugar. Neither he nor his wife can do without it.

In the spring and summer when your liver does not work properly and your kidneys and stomach are out of order, your system clogs up and you feel sluggish and listless. In the morning your head feels heavy and you hate to get up to go to work. Then is the time to use Gen-Lax. It is guaranteed to improve your condition—or your money back. Don't wait until you get bilious and feverish. Go to your druggist and demand Gen-Lax. It is a perfect laxative and tonic and will keep the bowels acting freely and regularly every day. It will put your system in vigorous shape and build up your run-down constitution.

Gen-Lax costs only one dollar for a large bottle, and can be had at all drug stores. It is worth its weight in gold. For sale by Owl Drug store and all other drug stores.—Ad.

John W. Tryon Lands 85-Pound Tarpon for Gold Button

Six-Foot Specimen Caught Under Rules Laid Down By Club

THE Tarpon club got under way this week with a bang when the first tarpon caught under the club rules was landed by John W. Tryon. The tarpon caught by Tryon was a game specimen, measuring six feet and weighing 85 pounds. Tryon caught his tarpon under the club rules, which require the fish to be weighed and measured by the keeper of the club vessel.

The Port Arthur Tarpon club was organized in 1925 by 132 Jefferson county charter members, most of whom are Port Arthurians. The club is incorporated and is for the protection of game fish and the development of angling for sport. The club owns the vessel Tarpon, which is anchored out at the jetty.

Fishing with heavy tackle, the club rules require the rod to be of wood, consisting of butt and tip, and to be not shorter than six feet nine inches over all. The tip must be not less than five feet long and must weigh not more than 10 ounces. The line must be standard 24 thread line, manufactured from the grade of line now known in the trade as "No. 10." By the tip is meant that portion of the rod from the outer end to the point where it is assembled at the butt with the tip full seated.

Rules require that the angler must bring the fish to gaff by use of rod and reel only. A broken rod disqualifies any catch. All fish entered for competition must be reported to the club on blanks provided for that purpose. Fish entered for competition must be officially weighed and measured. Double line the length of the leader only will be permitted.

Help Prohibited
Handling the double line or the use of a boatman's handline snapped on or in any way attached to the leader will disqualify the catch. The boatman or any person, other than the angler, touching any part of the tackle, except the leader, while the angler is fighting the fish, disqualifies the catch.

A fish shall not be gaffed unless leader is within reach of boat. Throwing gaff, harpoon or lily iron at fish when leader is not within boatman's reach will disqualify the catch.

No person other than the angler and one gaffer shall assist in killing or gutting the fish. Using of any gaff in excess of eight feet over all shall disqualify the fish. Shooting of any fish shall cause the same to be disqualified unless angler must fish with but one rod at a time.

WHITE SOX HUMBLE YANKEES AGAIN 8-0
NEW YORK, July 10.—Ineffective pitching by Markle and Gaston gave the Yankees an American league win from New York, 8 to 0. Root hit his two home runs for Chicago and drove in four runs. Phip hit his third home run in the last three games.

RED SOX WIN TWO FROM BROWNS
BOSTON, July 10.—Boston took both games from St. Louis, 5 to 4 and 6 to 0. In the second game Fehr, back in the game after an attack of jaundice, pitched admirably, holding the visitors to six hits and getting brilliant support. Todd and Lee yielded sensationally in each game. Slater knocked in three runs in the first game, but went hitless against Fehr.

America Assured of Victory In Paris Olympics

1928 OLYMPIAD TO LOS ANGELES

So Says Minister, Claiming Amsterdam Out of It

By HENRY L. PARKER, United Press Staff Correspondent
OLIMPIUS STADIUM, PARIS, July 10.—The United States is assured of victory in the 1928 Olympic games. Thanks to the sterling performance of our athletes on the first four days, we have piled up a lead of 62 points over Finland, our closest competitor. And placing the Finns three more first places in the runs and possible victories in the field, there is only the faintest ghost of a shot that the American team can be beaten.

We qualified four men in the pole vault among the seven finalists, and might make a clean sweep of this event, which was scheduled for 3:30 p. m.

Finland Breaks Record
In other events to be contested, such as the hammer throw and the 400 meters, the United States has great strength.

The first victory in a final event today went to Finland when that country's unparalleled running machine, Nurmi, captured first place in the 1500 meter run.

Nurmi broke an Olympic record in winning this event. Schärer of Switzerland was second, followed by the two Englishmen, Stiller and Lowe. Ray Baker and Lloyd Hahn, U. S. A., were fifth and sixth. Finland thus counted 10 points and America three.

Gaston Vidal, French minister of sport, told the United Press that the 1928 Olympic games will be in Los Angeles.

"I understand from a reliable source that Amsterdam intends to waive her claim," Mr. Vidal said, "we will bring a strong French team to Los Angeles."

Many Heats Run Off
The 400 meter eliminations were run off in 17 heats, two men qualifying in each.

First heat—won by Alwin, Canada; second, Vilen, Finland. Time 51.4 seconds.

Second heat—won by Robertson, U. S. A.; second, Jensen, Denmark. Time 51.5.

Third heat—won by Viler, Sweden; second, Kutyng, Hungary. Time 51.5.

Fourth heat—won by Wilson, U. S. A.; second, Norman, Australia. Time 49.5.

Fifth heat—won by Imbach, Switzerland, who ran alone. Time 51.4.

Sixth heat—won by Johnston, Canada; second, Ruff, Norway. Time 51.4.

Seventh heat—won by Taylor, U. S. A.; second, Moto, Japan. Time 50.4.

Eighth heat—won by Betts, South Africa; second, Lavan, Ireland. Time 49.4.

Life Saver Must Guard Against Strangle Holds

This is the second of a series of six articles on methods of life saving about the water.

By MARGARET PLUNKETT
Instructor in Life Saving, C. L. A., Houston, Texas

When drowning, a person frequently clings his hands around the neck of the one who is trying to save him.

Unless the rescuer can break this hold, both of them may sink.

The rescuer must place his right hand on the right jaw of the drowning person.

Then he must put his left hand on the drowning one's right elbow, push with his right hand, lift up with his left, and duck his head under the other's right arm.

This movement will free the rescuer and leave him at the drowning person's back, from which point he will have command of the situation.

KENTUCKY MAN TEACHES BRAZILIANS
PARIS, July 10.—Teaching the spirit of sport and the practice of athletics to a people unaccustomed to these arts is the job of Alexander J. Hagar, formerly of Lexington, Ky., and Chicago, now coach of the Brazilian Olympic track and field team.

He is here with eight men who carry the banner of Brazil in the eighth Olympiad, the first time the country has ever been represented in the classic track and field games.

Hagar is to be track trainer at Duquesne University and after the armistice was a Knight of Columbus athletic director in France. He went to St. Paul, Brazil, three years ago as a pioneer in amateur sport in South America, engaged as athletic director for the Club Athletico Paulistano to teach Brazilian youth the science and benefit of American athletic methods.

The prospect was not too encouraging when he arrived. The only sport practiced by Brazilians at the time was soccer football, promoted by clubs and conducted in much the same way as baseball. Baseball at home, track and field athletics were unknown except through the movies. Schools and universities had no athletic recreations, and men never indulged in competitive running except at picnics, as at home, when a leg of beer used to be the prize.

JOHN DUNN GREATEST
Jimmy Dunn, Cleveland manager who made a world champion of Johnny Kilbane, says Jack Johnson, the negro was the best heavyweight champion he ever saw.

HEILMAN NEVER TRIES A GUESS

Premier Batsman Gives Some Timely Tips

BY HARRY HEILMANN
Champion Boston American League
The art of batting is a combination of natural ability plus considerable thought and study.

Certain pitchers have a set method of working. Study their style and profit.

A great many catchers have a set system of handling their pitchers. This knowledge can be used to advantage.

Watch carefully the methods and mannerisms of other players regarded as great hitters. I have learned much from Cobb.

Here are some of the angles of batting as I see them. One can always learn something about the art of hitting them safe. Of late years I have made a number of changes in my style which I feel have worked to my great advantage.

Have confidence in your ability. Try to feel that you always have the edge on the pitcher.

Follow Through Style Best
Perfect a good free swing without any blitches that ends with a follow through as they say in golf. Such a style gets the weight of the body back of the swing and makes for distance.

A keen eye, as we say in baseball, is most necessary. This enables the batsman to look them over carefully and pass up the bad pitches.

All good hitters agree that the proper position is to hit every good ball that comes over, except with the count three balls and no strikes. Such a system gives the batter a decided edge.

I favor having the weight of the body equally distributed on both legs. This stance allows the batsman to step in, if the ball is a trifle outside, or back, if the ball is delivered on the inside of the place. Many of the best hitters carry the weight on their back foot. I believe it is equally distributed weight makes it easier to shift and prevents lifting up on the ball to some degree.

Don't Try to Outguess Pitcher
It is very necessary to change your position at the plate for the different pitching you face. For a right-handed hitter when facing left-handed pitching, I favor standing far back in the batter's box and vice versa. A curve ball must break in, and a position far back in the box gives the batsman more time to follow it.

With a pitcher working who depends a great deal on a slow ball, or change of pace, it is well to stand well up in the front of the box.

I am strongly opposed to trying to guess what the pitcher is going to throw. If you guess wrong, you are badly crossed up. Be ready for any offering he may serve.

Make every time at bat count. Regardless of conditions, always figure you are up there with a set intention and look to carry out your duty.

Many a ball game is decided by a base hit.

Work hard and always feel victory is possible until the game is over and the opposition has scored more runs than your side.

JACOBUS WINS FOR BEAUMONT

Exporters Win Fourth Straight 7 to 4

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 10.—Beaumont Jacobus was in rare form, the Bears were trimmed, again by the Exporters, 7 to 4. The victory made four straight for Beaumont.

Beaumont's victory was aided by the fact that the Exporters' pitcher, Marshall, was out of the game in the fourth inning.

Beaumont's pitcher, Jacobus, was in his best form, striking out several batters.

The game was a close one, with both teams scoring runs in the first half of the game.

The Exporters' pitcher, Collins, was also in good form, but was unable to prevent Beaumont from scoring.

The game was a good one for both teams, and the fans enjoyed it very much.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One day the Twins, Nancy and Nick, were picking wild flowers in the woods when the funniest little man you ever saw appeared at their feet.

"Hold on there," he shouted merrily. "Don't pick me, please. I'm not a wild flower—I'm a fairy. I'm a good bit of me before we're through."

"Oh, you are!" cried the Twins in surprise, dropping down on their knees. "We love fairies."

"Well, I'm glad of that," said the little fellow. "For I expect you'll see a good bit of me before we're through."

"Through with what?" asked Nick.

"Well, you see it's this way," said the fairy, sitting down on a stone and crossing his knees. "My name is Zip—Mister Zip—and I'm going to run an amusement park for the wood folk. And I need extra help."

"Oh, will we do?" asked Nancy eagerly.

"Hopping rain toads!" exclaimed Mister Zip. "Don't go so fast, please. I was coming to that pretty soon. Well, as I was saying, I need help, so I went to the Fairy Queen and told her my troubles."

"And what did she say?" asked Nick.

"There, there!" laughed Mister Zip. "I'll tell you what the Fairy Queen said. She said, 'Go to the Twins at once, Mister Zip, and take them these magic shoes. Nancy and Nick are the best little helpers I know, and these magic shoes will make them just the right size so they won't be stepping on you all the time.' And so saying, he reached down behind the stone and held up the two pairs of green shoes. Nancy and Nick slipped the shoes on and suddenly a funny thing happened. The place where the Twins had stood was as empty as air. It seemed as though the ground must have opened and swallowed them."

Mister Zip was so astonished that he fell clear off the stone he was sitting on. "Where are you, Twins? Where are you?"

And then he had to laugh for there were the Twins under a daisy plant right beside him.

"We're all ready to go!" said Nancy happily. "Where is your amusement park, Mister Zip?"

"Right over there on the edge of the woods near that patch of May apple blossoms," said the fairyman. "Come on and I'll show you. There's a merry-go-round and a roller coaster and a ferris wheel and everything."

With a skip and a run they reached the place beside the May blossom patch and as sure as the moon's round wasn't there the cutest little park you ever saw with a fence around it and a place to take tickets at everything—just like a big park in the cities where you're been lots of times. There were free swings and aliding boards and sand piles for the children to play in—and places to sell ice cream cones and lemonade and lollypops and peanuts. And a merry-go-round and a roller coaster and everything—just as Mister Zip said. Only these things were not free.

Over the gate was a big sign which said, "Happy-Go-Lucky Park, Come In."

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

HOW THE DEFEATED KNIGHT WON

An English poet named Chaucer lived almost 600 years ago. One of his famous poems was about a tournament in Greece.

Greece was not at all famous for its tournaments. France, Italy, England and Germany were the countries where knightly battles were in style. Perhaps that is why he laid his poem there.

Let me tell you Chaucer's poem in story form:

The Duke of Athens was riding in the woods one May morning. He came upon two young men fighting with swords.

"Stop," cried the duke. What means this quarrel?"

"We both love Emily, sister of the duke's wife," was the reply.

"Well, I am the duke and you must not fight over her. I'll tell you what to do. We'll have a tournament. Each of you can get a hundred knights to help him. Come to my palace in fifty weeks and fight. The victor shall have Emily for wife."

The two knights agreed. They were named Palamon and Arcite. Far and wide they rode. Whenever they met a knight, they asked him to be on their side at the tournament.

At last the great day came. Lords on great steeds rode through Athens towards the duke's palace. Many a bride was made of gold. The shields were bright polished and the helmets shone like the sun. Pipes, trumpets, and clarions sounded.

The palace was full of people. The duke sat at his window, overlooking the field of battle.

Arcite with his hundred knights entered through the western side. They held a red banner aloft. Palamon and his knights came in from the east. Their banner was white.

Then rang trumpets loud and clear. The knights drove their sharp spears into the sides of their horses. Madsly they dashed toward one another. Spears crashed against shields and armor. Some were knocked from their horses. Others lost their helmets. Swords flashed in the sunlight.

"Palamon fought boldly, but at last by the force of twenty knights he was borne low. Seeing what had happened, the duke shouted:

"It is enough. The battle is over! Arcite has won, and he shall have Emily for bride."

"Then went the victor to claim the fair maid. His lips curled in scorn as he thought of how his rival had been beaten."

"But his pride had come too soon. His horse suddenly tripped and fell. Arcite was crushed to death."

"Palamon was still alive. Since his rival had passed from earth, Emily agreed to marry him. Thus ended the struggle for the hand of a maid."

SHIP ARRIVALS HERE DECLINE

Italian Vessel Only One to Dock Today

No ship arrivals were reported at the local docks today with the exception of the Italian steamer, Ionessa, which came into port this morning from Tampico and stopped at the Mexican docks to load two car loads of lumber. The Ionessa will probably go to Orange this afternoon to complete her loading of additional cargo. The Ionessa is owned by the W. H. Tupper and Company.

The Gulf company tanker Gulfstar arrived in port last yesterday afternoon and is docked at the Gulf company's docks. The Gulfstar came in from Tampico.

Other arrivals in Sabine district ports include two steamers and a tanker for Beaumont and one steamer for Orange. The British steamer Penarth Arrow and the Norwegian steamer Johanna Dybwad will both load out a cargo of lumber and timber from Beaumont and the steamer Southwest will lift a cargo from Orange.

Two sailings were reported from Port Arthur today. The W. L. Connolly for Tampico and the tanker Pennsylvania Sun for Philadelphia. While from Sabine the Swedish steamer Algeria sailed for Sweden. The Transmarine steamer Sunawaroko is expected to sail from Beaumont today.

DAVIS' CREED IS QUESTIONED

Houston Reacts to Nomination With Queries

HOUSTON, Texas, July 10.—Houston's first reaction to the nomination of J. W. Davis by the democratic national convention was an immediate inquiry, "what's his religion?"

Within five minutes after the 103rd ballot yesterday, telephone calls began pouring into Houston newspapers, and the major portion of the calls referred to the question of church affiliation. Most of the anxious democrats asked bluntly, "Is he a Protestant?" Some wanted more specific information. Today the number of inquiries is rapidly increasing, and the number of those interested in the religious beliefs of the democratic nominee is almost one hundred per cent.

Being a politician pays good money. It should. You are always liable to reform and be out of work.

Old Home Town Celebrates Nomination of Favorite Son With Uproarious Fete

VILLAGE STRONG FOR J. W. DAVIS

Fans Beat Cry of 'Extra' To the Streets

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 10.—An uproarious demonstration unequalled in Clarksburg since the war days was staged last night by the home town of John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee.

His home town of Clarksburg, declared the old home town to be Davis to a man. "I can assure you this honor is not going to pass unnoticed in Clarksburg."

Davis was born here April 13, 1873, and after finishing his course at Washington and Lee University and teaching there for one year in the school of law, returned to Clarksburg, entered a law firm with his father in 1907. Following the death of his father, he returned to Clarksburg, to the law firm of Davis, Davis & Davis, which was then the largest law firm in the state.

He was elected to the West Virginia house of delegates. In 1900 he was a candidate for presidential elector at large and in 1904 he attended the democratic convention in St. Louis as a delegate. He served in the 62nd and 63rd congresses from the first district of West Virginia. He resigned August 30, 1912, to become solicitor general of the United States, serving until 1915, a period when the office was held by one of the nation's best known lawyers.

Bob LaFollette Powerful Leader Because of Life Given to Service

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Robert LaFollette, acknowledged leader of the progressives in both parties, admittedly held the balance of power in both houses of congress in the session just ended, wherever party votes were cast on strictly party lines.

His little band of progressives from Wisconsin and other states followed his leadership without question. This band was elected to congress through the efforts of the conference for progressive political action, which called upon LaFollette to lead the progressive and to write his own platform. It will create the machinery to make the LaFollette fight in every state in the union and to make an effort to capture both houses of congress, regardless of what happens to the presidential ticket.

LaFollette's leadership of the progressive hosts comes to him after a lifetime of effort for the cause espoused by the progressives. He has never swerved a moment from his devotion to that cause and his leadership has never been seriously questioned. Only once, in 1912, when Roosevelt led a third party movement, has any other leader been seriously considered. That time, many LaFollette followers refused to follow Roosevelt, saying that his movement was political rather than fundamentally progressive.

Roosevelt himself was not a close friend of LaFollette. He refused Wisconsin patronage to "Fighting Bob" and turned it over to Senator Spooner of Wisconsin, one of the old guard whom LaFollette follows in Wisconsin drove from the senate.

Senator LaFollette was 69 years old June 14, having been born in Primrose, Wis., in 1855. He graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1870 at the age of 24 and the following year was admitted to the bar, and elected prosecuting attorney of Dane county, the youngest man ever to hold that office in the history of the county. The next year he married Belle Case of Barnum, Wis., and she has been his constant domestic and political companion since that time.

The Wisconsin Idea. In 1901, he became governor of Wisconsin and served three terms until he was sent to the senate in 1905 after resigning the governorship. While he was governor he placed upon the statute books of Wisconsin a mass of progressive legislation, which has since been popularly known to students of politics as "the Wisconsin idea." Chief among these measures are workmen's compensation, nomination of all candidates for office by direct primary and a public service commission to regulate railroad rates and charges of all public utility corporations.

One of the constructive measures adopted and put through congress by LaFollette is the seaman's act, abolishing slavery of the seas by repealing the provisions of the old laws that enabled a captain to arrest deserting members of the crew. This act has raised the wages of seamen, not only on American ships, but on the vessels of every nation that touch at American ports, because foreign crews desert in American ports and must be replaced with crews that demand the new wages.

Railroad regulation has long been a subject in which LaFollette is interested and he knows more about railroads than probably any other man in public life. He secured the adoption of many amendments to strengthen the power of the interstate commerce commission, some of which were nullified when the present E. C. Cummings law was passed. The repeal of this law is one of the planks on which LaFollette will make his race for the presidency.

Exposed Oil Steal. It was Senator LaFollette who first exposed the Teapot Dome scandal in a speech in the senate months before the investigation was begun, and it was his resolution for an investigation that finally uncovered the corruption that drove Fall and Denby into private life.

LaFollette was one of the opponents of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and it was in fighting this bill that the progressive movement was born back in 1908. An effort was made to expel him from the senate because of a speech made at St. Paul, which was afterwards proved to have been incorrectly reported, but this effort failed.

He has two sons and two daughters. Robert, Jr., is his private secretary in Washington. Philip is a member of his father's law firm in Madison, Wis. His eldest daughter, Fola, is the wife of George Middleton, the playwright. Mary is the wife of Ralph Sucher, a Washington newspaperman.

border after the Washington conference and will tour the provinces before returning home. The magnificent roads and superb scenery of Canada should be known to every American.

AGED PROSPECTOR DIES AFTER STRIKE. LUDLOW, Col., July 10.—For almost half a century Peter Collins pursued fortune, and at 50 his efforts were successful. In the Mojave desert he struck gold ore running $20 a ton.

Today he is in his grave, a week after his lucky strike. He walked in front of a Santa Fe train and was killed.

WOMAN HITS WATER TO SPAN CHANNEL. FOLKSTONE, Eng., July 10.—Wearing special suit of life line and rubber, which weighs 11 pounds and is designed to exclude cold, Miss Zetta Hills plunged into the English channel at 6 a. m. today in an attempt to swim to France, a feat no woman has yet accomplished and but four men. Her mother and father accompanied Miss Hills in a motor boat.

Many to Use Roads. "The Stars and Stripes" and the British colors will fly side by side along our roads. A goodly percentage of the more than 200,000 members of the Maccabees are Canadians. The fact that the order extends its benefits on one side of the "unguarded boundary" the same as on the other is an example of the community of interests of the two English speaking nations.

"Many of the United States Maccabees will motor back to Canada, with their brothers from across the border after the Washington conference and will tour the provinces before returning home. The magnificent roads and superb scenery of Canada should be known to every American."

DETROIT, July 10.—More British flags will be fluttering over United States roads next summer on the way to Washington, D. C., than have ever been seen in the United States since the war of 1812, according to plans made for the Maccabees motor caravan tour, which includes thousands of Canadian Maccabees.

"Friendly invasion" of the United States by caravans from the provinces of Canada will bring the Union Jack bearing the cross of St. George across the border all the way from Vancouver to the Maritime provinces of the east," said A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the international fraternal benefit society, in an address here to a meeting of United States Maccabees. "In July, 1935, the Maccabees caravan will start for Washington from every part of the American continent north of the Rio Grande."

JIM COX MADE BREAK POSSIBLE

Defeated Leader Sought Unity of Disgruntled Forces

NEW YORK, July 10.—In a sunlit room on the twelfth floor of the Waldorf Hotel, three from the rank of state cigars and without perspiring politicians in their shirt sleeves, the nomination of John W. Davis as democratic standard bearer was made possible.

A medium-sized man, close knit, alert, immaculate, dressed for business, his keen gray eyes peering intently from behind a pair of nose glasses, he came in coolly, made that nomination possible. That man was James M. Cox of Ohio, until now the titular leader of the democratic party.

A candidate himself who had gone down to defeat by 7,000,000 majority—the largest in history—after making a "crucial" for the league of nations, Cox put aside personal ambitions and the human desire to show the world that he could "come back" when he saw his party in the throes of the greatest factional feud in its history. He came to New York on Monday bearing the olive branch and he succeeded in restoring harmony among the warring elements.

Cox Used Influence. On Saturday night, an appeal was made to Cox to use his good offices to break the deadlock between Mr. Aldoo and Smith. But his supporters told him that he could be nominated. On Sunday night, the little attempt at a compromise was made. When word of the result reached him, Cox hesitated no longer. He forgot all but party harmony and came.

When he arrived Monday morning, Cox issued a general invitation to the democrats to consult him. The leaders came: George Brewster of Illinois; Tom Taggart of Indiana; Ed Moore of Ohio; Cordell Hall of Tennessee; Pat Harrison of Mississippi—but they were not the ones he came to see. He wanted to confer with the delegates who were to make the nomination.

Held Consultation. The rank and file began to come in to consult with their titular leader. Cox began with the men and women of his own Ohio delegation. As he pleaded for harmony, they gradually came around to his way of thinking. Encouraged with his success he began to plead with others, groups and individuals.

"Davis, Davis, Davis"—Cox drummed the name into the consciousness of all with whom he came in contact. Many, particularly the so-called leaders, thought that Davis was "shop worn" with the convention, that he "started" too soon and could not possibly go over the top.

In Australia there are at least 20 species of animals that are orators—flying squirrels, flying opossums, living mice and even living bears.

35 AMERICAN SHIPS ENTER SABINE PORT

A total of 35 American vessels with a tonnage of 38,754 entered the port of the Sabine district during June, according to A. A. Gunter, assistant collector of customs.

There were 20 vessels cleared American, with a tonnage of 30,177. Foreign vessels entered were 15, with 48,035 tonnage. There were cleared 23 foreign ships, tonnage 65,477. Foreign countries with vessels represented in Sabine district ports during June were Belgium, France, Finland, Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Sweden, England, India, Cuba, Brazil, Uruguay, Alaska, China, Japan, Egypt and British West Indies.

BRITISH FLAGS TO FLY IN U. S.

NEW ORLEANS.—Dr. William Carter Stubbs, widely known authority on sugar cane culture, died here Monday.

PLAIN DEALING.—Ellis McKendzie, 16, stepped into a 12-foot hole in the Red river bed Sunday while swimming and drowned.

NEW ORLEANS.—Mrs. B. W. Schneidau, whose skull was fractured in an automobile accident caused by glaring headlights, died here in Charity hospital yesterday.

LAKE CHARLES.—A total of 770,000 cubic yards of earth was removed during June in the construction of the canal between the Calcasieu and Sabine rivers. The parish has spent $705,000 on the canal to date.

NEW ORLEANS.—Once exonerated, Mrs. Catherine Bernice was tried on a charge of murder in connection with the death of her husband, Felix Bernice, in June, 1923.

SHREVEPORT.—Only two tick-infested cattle have been found in Calcasieu parish this year, according to Hal Gattu tick eradication inspector.

NEW ORLEANS.—Eugene LeBlanc, Texas and Pacific bridge worker, suffered a possible fracture of the skull Sunday when he butted heads with Hjalmar Rasmussen, his brother-in-law. LeBlanc was said to have been under the influence of liquor.

LAKE CHARLES.—Contract for 11 miles of sidewalks was given by the city council to H. S. Sealy of New Iberia for $54,740.25. Six bids were offered. The price is said to be the lowest in the Gulf coast territory of the Southern Pacific since 1914.

LAKE CHARLES.—The Vinton-Orange gap of the Old Spanish trail has been completed and is awaiting acceptance by the highway commission, according to Floyd Hamilton, assistant state highway engineer.

Many to Use Roads. "The Stars and Stripes" and the British colors will fly side by side along our roads. A goodly percentage of the more than 200,000 members of the Maccabees are Canadians. The fact that the order extends its benefits on one side of the "unguarded boundary" the same as on the other is an example of the community of interests of the two English speaking nations.

"Many of the United States Maccabees will motor back to Canada, with their brothers from across the border after the Washington conference and will tour the provinces before returning home. The magnificent roads and superb scenery of Canada should be known to every American."

DETROIT, July 10.—More British flags will be fluttering over United States roads next summer on the way to Washington, D. C., than have ever been seen in the United States since the war of 1812, according to plans made for the Maccabees motor caravan tour, which includes thousands of Canadian Maccabees.

"Friendly invasion" of the United States by caravans from the provinces of Canada will bring the Union Jack bearing the cross of St. George across the border all the way from Vancouver to the Maritime provinces of the east," said A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the international fraternal benefit society, in an address here to a meeting of United States Maccabees. "In July, 1935, the Maccabees caravan will start for Washington from every part of the American continent north of the Rio Grande."

The Editorial Mind

In New York

NEW YORK, July 10.—This is one of those tragedies of Broadway that can't be told with names.

A broken old woman tottered into the lobby of one of those exclusive hotels on the upper reaches of the famous thoroughfare of broken promises and broken hearts.

In her tattered make-up was a dash of the styles of many periods of the past. It included bright green hair, white rouletted cheeks, and a ruffled collar at a wedding reception, looking longingly at a flower-like girl receiving the congratulations of scores of fashionably-dressed guests.

A balcony snickered.

"They say she's her daughter," he confided pointing toward the dog and the bride-to-be.

Inquiry revealed the story.

The old woman was once the pampered darling of a wealthy man. He went to school to France to be educated and brought home only when a husband had been chosen for her.

Meanwhile the mother, ruined by drugs and drink was cast aside, forgotten even by her daughter, who never really knew her.

The beauty of yesterday stared dully from her background seat while—then slipped unobtrusively away.

The daughter never will know.

DEMOCRACY CHOOSES ITS GREATEST MIND; WILL 1912 REPEAT ITSELF?

The democratic party has selected its greatest mind to represent it in the three-cornered presidential race to be decided in November. It seems incredible that out of the mistakes of the past two weeks at New York such a selection as that of John W. Davis could have been made.

Even the enemies of Davis and of the clients he represents have admitted that Davis is the best equipped man for the presidency in all these United States. The single objection that prevented him from being the choice of the party in the opening ballots was the fact that as a lawyer he has represented the so-called Morgan interests.

What of it? It would be an insult to the intelligence of the Morgan banking firm to suppose that it would hire any other than the best legal talent. A single mistake by the chief attorney of such interests often means the loss of millions of dollars. Thus, the Morgan connection is in itself a guarantee of the legal and mental ability of the democratic candidate.

There is also a most definite guarantee that Davis is an American citizen, first, last and all the time. For Davis both in West Virginia and New York has represented organized labor as its attorney. He worked so well for organized labor that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was reported repeatedly during the long convention as in favor of the nomination of Davis. A third sure guarantee of the quality of Davis, the man, is shown in the fact that tens of thousands of attorneys represented in the American Bar association have honored Davis by making him its president. Thus Davis, the youngest of the candidates before the convention, was ultimately selected as its nominee because the delegates decided after all that their job was to place before the American people the party's best-equipped person for the business of being president. Such a man is Davis, who has achieved the age of 50, the headship of his profession and who has served with equal honor and ability the organized workers of America and the organized wealth of America.

The fact that Davis, within little more than a quarter of a century of manhood could have reached such a position from a comparatively obscure origin in the politically unimportant state of West Virginia is in itself an inspiration and proof that brains in America still may reach the top along strictly honorable lines.

Davis was nominated after a most bitter religious controversy. He took no part in it. Davis was nominated following a most vicious attack by W. J. Bryan who labeled him the candidate of Wall Street. Davis did not reply. Davis was nominated in face of a wet and dry fight within the party. He ignored it.

Thus the democratic party out of the turmoil has selected a candidate who can heal all wounds of the party except the wound of the disappointment of certain candidates who wanted the job. The quadrennial battle is now on—Davis, Coolidge and LaFollette.

Can there be any doubt but that the story of "1912" is about to be repeated? Coolidge is in the position of Taft, LaFollette a somewhat lesser Roosevelt breaking into the vitals of the republican west. And Davis inherits the same political situation which resulted in the Wilson victory of "1912."

Louise Loraine, a motion picture actress, has been divorced from a California business man. He made the discovery that advertising did not pay.

IS THERE AN OIL TRUST?

Attorney General Harlan Fiske Stone, a republican, has brought suit against thirty-nine producing and refining companies making the direct accusation that the concerns constitute an oil trust. Among the companies sued is the Pure Oil company.

Bernard G. Dawes is its president. He is the brother of Charles G. Dawes, republican nominee for vice president of the United States and Charles G. is said to be a heavy stockholder in the company. Among the concerns sued is the Standard Oil company of California. Its president has entered a sweeping denial that his company has entered into any agreement for the control of prices.

Calvin Coolidge made Harlan Fiske Stone attorney general of the United States. Stone stepped in when Harry M. Daugherty stepped out. Is this campaign to have its trust busting features? If so is petroleum without a friend in high place?

New York newspapers say that Newton D. Baker made the most wonderful speech of his career. He did and then the convention defeated his plan by a vote of three to one. His oratory lost its punch?

Your Money AT WORK

JUST BECAUSE YOU BUY SOME OF THESE

IS NOT A GOOD REASON TO STOP VISITING HERE REGULARLY

Don't stop saving just because a few investments are unprofitable. Loss of savings is no excuse for extravagance.

It seems as though a successful man ought to be smart enough to keep from getting stupid. However, even the rich men and the so-called captains of industry make mistakes. Almost without exception a bunch of "rats and dogs" are found in the bottom of their strong boxes after they die.

The rich man does not quit when he makes a mistake in investing his money. Perhaps that is one reason why he is successful.

After a few mistakes the natural temptation is to blow your money on the theory that it will be lost anyway. However, the best course is to keep on saving, no matter how many mistakes are made.

The LAND OF FORGOTTEN MEN by Edison Marshall

CHAPTER I
The idea came to Big Chris, as he stood on the beach gazing out through the narrow, darkened harbor mouth into the night and the storm, that this world of his was an outcast world, a land that God had cursed and forsaken, a parish land outlawed from the kindly, sun-kissed world where the races moved and teemed. Because it was his home, because its entire strange spirit of desolation and death had long ago got hold of him, it was as if he were a parish, too, God-cursed and God-forsaken, scarcely less so than the Remittance Man, with whom he had just become acquainted and who now lay in a drunken stupor in one of the tumble-down shacks in the native village behind him.

Such ideas did not haunt him often. He was large and blond and rugged—not a dreamer in any sense except as all men of the northern races, knowing life to its cruel depths, are given to dreams—and his last name was Larsen. His job, that of a web foreman in connection with the fishing that was the one industry in these far, forsaken waters, kept him too busy for such macabre thoughts. But the north was showing its teeth tonight. Besides, he was inwardly ill at ease from purely material considerations—he had caught the canner launch Jupiter at Nushagak, with the idea of connecting up with the mail boat at Squaw Harbor, the Jupiter's home port, in a race to the "outside," but the swift-breaking storm had forced the launch into a miniature curve far up in one of the most desolate and stormy stretches of seacoast in the entire north, there to remain for an uncertain time.

Of course it was only a squall in the tradition of seafarers. Captain Jim, of the Jupiter—on the way home from a scouting trip for a new trap site—had driven his staunch little ship through seas twice as high. But Captain Jim did not care to take a chance when a mere passenger's life was the only consideration. Shook, at Belmham, and Bradford at Squaw Harbor had given definite instructions against that very thing, needless risk of the lives of his crew. Yet, Chris had admitted that this was no night for landlubbers.

In all his travels he had never known a land quite like this narrow, treeless, storm-blasted peninsula that was the fence between the Pacific ocean and Bering sea. Perhaps that was why he hated it, and by a grotesque paradox that no mind such as his could ever explain, loved it, too. The hill behind him sheltered him from the lash of the wind, yet he felt that old dryness in his head that the way marks zero weather, and the icy touch of the frost, as of a hand, crept under his heavy shirt. He sighed he had his heavy sea-coat that he had left in a cabin in the village. Thence his thought turned to the Remittance Man, wondering how he was making out. It is not wise, on the Peninsula, to seek oneself in distilled sour dough and then lie in the cold. This was November; he made a bet with himself that the Remittance Man—granting that he sustained his drinking pace here and set and which he had never surpassed all records in this hard-drinking land, was already famous clear to Nushagak—would not participate in the Russian festival with which all far-western Alaska celebrates the Christ-mas season.

As Chris watched, the storm seemed to increase; the heat of the waves on the rocks had a deeper, more sinister note in the distance, the sea was in motion to follow the Remittance Man's example and forget his predicament, the storm, and all the moods it had brought, in sleep.

Yet it was not to be that he should lie in his bunk, or that the Jupiter should lie in safety in the harbor. The darkness without the harbor was suddenly split by a queer, upward-darting flare of light.

A signal came from far away, evident from off the rock-ribbed shore miles farther up the Peninsula, but the clear, icy air enabled him to distinguish it with entire plainness. He stood almost motionless, peering. There was only a short wait. Then he saw the yellow flare again.

The Jupiter's course was decided for her. She was not to lie in the cove, nor yet to carry her eager passenger to the home shelter of Squaw Harbor. Big Chris stepped to the water line.

"Captain Jim?" he called.

His voice, ringing low, carried easily to the launch in the little harbor. Captain Jim stepped to the door of his pilot house, and his reply rolled back out of the dark sea. "Yas," he said, and only the droll flatness of the a—always marked among men of Scandinavian birth—arose from sublimity that full, mysterious word.

"Did you see dat light?"

"No."

"Den look. East by north-est—"

They watched, and the rocket made a long, yellow path through the darkness. There was no immediate change in Captain Jim's expression. He reached a hand and sounded a gong that told his chief engineer to stand by. Then he gave certain other orders—brusquely, bawlingly, as was his habit.

"Hoffere you take in dat skiff come in and put me aboard!" Big Chris called up from the darkened shore. It was not that he had any delusions in regard to this cruise of the Jupiter. The launch would not head toward its home port; nor would there be any great thrill in battling these angry waves. If Big Chris had kept silent, the captain might have pushed out and forgotten him; they had not only a few days before, and therefore had no instinct to turn to each other in a crisis. However, it did not hurt as much as occur to him that he could refrain from answering personally that distance call from the deep; that he was entitled to any special credit for doing so.

Captain Jim's brain moved deliberately and slow, but certain as a clockwork. It was true, he knew, that no seconds were to be wasted in reaching that sinking ship. Yet every available man would be needed in the work of rescue, and particularly great-hearted, "scoldem" fellows, such as he had observed Big Chris to be. At his command one of his men came pushed off in the skiff and standing bent in the boat, rowed in swift, sure strokes to the shore.

Big Chris was standing ready to jump in, but he paused for one instant. "Is dar nobody else in dis 'vile lage wort' taking?" he asked.

"No, the stockkeeper's a cripple, but Look! he'll be mad, there's only one other white man in the village, and that's the Remittance Man. Get in."

It did not occur to either of them that they should take natives on this rescue trip. This was a white man's job, and it would take the white man's steel of heart. And they would not even go to see about the Remittance Man, for they knew too well that the man was a white man, and that's the Remittance Man. Get in."

But they were suddenly brought off sharp in their work of pushing off by a voice in the darkness behind them. "Wait, a second, you fellows," the voice said. It was abrupt, almost commanding in tone, and there was the sound of hurrying feet in the snow. "I want to go."

Big Chris turned, and there was a disconcerting, almost disgraceful, glare that the northern men guessed at, but never knew in full—had not destroyed a certain quality of charm in the Remittance Man's voice. It was rich, full baritone, and it had an irrepressible boyish quality, a frankness and open-heartedness that appeared instinctively even to these hard-fisted men of the north. The Remittance Man was a white man, and the particular section of which he was a native could usually be recognized by his accent: a softening of hard consonants and mellowing of vowels that is indigenous to the country south of the Mason Dixon line. The two men in the boat heard no thick speech to show his drunkenness.

In an instant his great breath pushed between them. The two men tried to probe the dusk to see his face.

"Are you sober?" the man from the Jupiter asked bluntly.

"Not entirely," was the answer.

"Sober as I ever am. I'll be as sober as a saint by the time we get out to that sinking ship."

"Then pile in. Push off, Larson."

In the moment when all the men aboard the Jupiter, the powerful, rugged engines had begun to rumble, and the launch was struggling out to sea.

Captain Jim, at the wheel, steered straight out until he was comparatively out of danger of close-laying reefs and shallows, then turned east. He was a northern man, and the lure of the sea was in the fiber of his being; but this was no day to glory in this battle under the star-studded welkin. He found himself wishing that he was like that unexpected passenger, the Remittance Man, too near drunk really to understand. He had a deep feeling against going on—not a fear, but rather a secret knowledge that he could not trace—and yet he could not turn back. It was not in him to turn the wheel and steer back to the harbor when those yellow rockets signaled for help. The laws of the sea are few and old, but they hold like iron shackles. It was not that he went on against his will; that he could not, if he desired, find excuses to turn back. Men obey the sea laws through love, not through hate; and it was simply part of him, and part of all the sea breed that he represented, that he pushed on to answer to that signal in the darkness. But he wondered that the Remittance Man should voluntarily choose to come.

He turned to Big Chris Larson—mostly a stranger to him but yet one of his own hard-muscling breed. "Are you a sailor?" he asked.

The man stood up from the bunk where he had been bracing. "Yas, sir," he answered, with instinctive respect, "I sail in win'hammers for ten year."

"There's no reason we shouldn't spread her canvas. The wind's fair, and that little mainmast will help to hold her steady. Get out on the deck. I'll give you Erickson to help."

CAMPAIGN AGAINST 'ISOLATION' BEGUN

WASHINGTON, July 10.—A national "non-partisan campaign" to induce the United States "to abandon its policy of isolation" and introduce cooperation in world affairs for the elimination of wars will be launched by the National Council for the Prevention of War on July 20, it was announced today.

The campaign will be carried on concurrently with the political campaign through the summer and autumn. All nominees for president, vice president and senate will be asked to state their views on world co-operation for a world peace. Getting out with a program of "progressive world organization, with reduction of armaments, with wide education for peace," the council will hold demonstrations in all states.

THE NEWS' SOCIAL AND HOUSEHOLD PAGE

Dame Fashion Casts Eye In Direction of Approved Modes for Fall Season

DAME FASHION, that person who lives more in the future than in the present, has already cast an eye in the direction of the coming fall season.

There was so much interest in the suit this last spring, indeed before it was generally accepted, that even at that early date wonder arose as to whether it would be greatly in evidence next fall. Some said yes; others no. But this much is certain: it will be an different line from the spring creations. Longer coats and costume blouses were predicted, and the first showings from Paris are justifying both predictions. Photographs of mannequins and society women seen at Longchamps and other fashionable places show that the suit is in the spring, but subject to the elaboration imparted by finer lines, embroidery and soft feminine materials. The accompanying blouses are embellished and sometimes head-to-toe in some instances match the coat. The coat is usually knee length or longer and is thereby more becoming to a certain type of mature figure.

Under all signs fall brown will be the color of early fall. All of the autumn colors will be in more subdued shades. Among the browns are beaver, tobacco, ecru, shell and African representing darker shades.

Shades of cedar wood, pinkish shades for afternoon, to be worn with fur coats, are examples of novelty browns.

In the gray group a renaissance of mole is assured, with chinchilla gray for combination purposes. Mole grays also will be good: Oxford highly regarded.

Gray blues are outstanding in silks, woolsens and hosiery.

Myrtle green for street wear; willow green the high novelty.

Pinkish reds to garnets and cardinals will be the vogue with Burgundy for purple reds.

As to evening colors: turquoise, glacier, forget-me-not, Wedgewood, blue, peppermint and water greens; rose, salmon, apricot, peach among the pinks; orchid and violet and shades of sulphur yellow and white with brilliant accessories will be favored by miladi.

Camp Fire Girls Have Roof Party

A most enjoyable affair of Tuesday evening was given by members of the Tatapocho and Aokiya Camp Fires when they entertained on the roof of the First M. E. Church, South.

Old-fashioned games were enjoyed during the evening, following which delicious refreshments of ice cream and tasty cake were served. The cakes were baked by the girls for honor beads.

Enjoying the pleasing affair were Misses Lila Dicus, Louise Erwin, Beatrice McKinney, Dorothy Jordan, Gladys Sims, Verlice Evans, Mary Bell Nellie, Blanche McBride, Katherine Hunt, Helen Johnson, Eleanor Wall, Nellie James, Hazel Benware, Smith, Ellen Perry and Velma Starn. Misses Lewis, Sandy, Clyde Harper, Darnell Wells, Elmer Brumby, W. Z. Burke, Wesley Brannon, Harold Gantt, Aaron Brown, Rucker Elliott, Albert Lasker, Charles Clay Hogan, Jimmy Seales, Walter Stead, Rayford Kinard, Fred Steussy, Garland Dinnard, and Jesse Alexander; Mrs. R. L. Rutan, Dr. V. A. Godley, and B. A. Watson.

MR. AND MRS. OVERTON GO TO MEDINA LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Overton and children, Vernice and Kenneth, of 2426 Fourth street will leave Friday for an automobile trip to Medina lake. They expect to be gone two weeks.

MR. AND MRS. FROST GO TO LOS ANGELES

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Frost and little daughter, Allie, of 3331 Seventh street have gone to Los Angeles, Cal., for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Frost.

MR. AND MRS. CARRIER TO LEAVE FOR LOUISIANA

Mr. and Mrs. E. Carrier and little daughter, Lida Mae, of the Model addition, accompanied by Miss Anna-belle Wyble, will leave tomorrow via automobile for a visit with relatives and friends in Crowley and Opelousas, La.

MRS. H. H. PETERSON GOES TO LOUISIANA

Mrs. H. H. Peterson and children of 2648 Thirtieth street left Saturday morning, via automobile for Baton Rouge and New Orleans where they will spend two weeks visiting with relatives and friends.

Didn't Know His Brother

"My brother got so bad with stomach and liver trouble that when I saw him after a year I didn't know him. He was emaciated and yellow as a pumpkin and was often in great pain he couldn't have lived long the way he was going. Doctors and medicine gave him no relief. I picked up a little booklet on May's Wonderful Remedy, which he said described his case perfectly. The first dose of it gave him great relief and in a month he was good as ever." It is a simple, Cathartic mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation, which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all drug-gists.—Adv.

Gleaners Class Hold Outing At City Park

The Gleaners class of the First Christian church entertained with one of the most delightful outings of the week at the city park at Port Neches last evening, the outing taking the form of a hayride and watermelon feast and being given by the boys as a surprise to the girls, who defeated them in an attendance campaign in Sunday school attendance during the month of June.

The young people met at the church at 7 o'clock and motored to the park on a large truck. A watermelon feast was enjoyed after their arrival at the park and during the evening delightful outdoor games were indulged in.

Those participating in the pleasing affair were Misses Christine Varado, Mabel McElroy of Temple, Madeleine Poole of Franklin, Fayette Taylor, Lois Boutwell and Althin Taylor; Messrs. S. B. DeLafair, L. G. Douglas, Frank Durham, Steve Vanght, Edmund Mathews, Lester Knight, Curtis Lacy, Alvin Hall, and Rev. D. W. McElroy of Fort Worth.

THE STEPPERS ENTERTAINED The members of the III Steppers Club were charmingly entertained last evening by Miss Beulah Singleton at her home, 1829 Sixth street.

An interesting business was held and three new members were received into the membership of the club. The III Steppers Club is well organized and numerous entertainments are scheduled for the coming months. Dancing was enjoyed following the business session and a delicious ice course was served.

Those enjoying the pleasant affair were Misses Ione Singleton, Lola Mae Millard, Nona Helman, Pauline Melanson, Beulah Domingue, Edna Helman, Maxine Murphy and the hostess, Beulah Singleton; Messrs. Mack House, Clarence Sarole, Bill Monroe, G. L. Breuer and Leslie Johnson.

THE III STEPPERS will be entertained next Wednesday evening by Miss Lola Mae Millard at her home, 248 Fifth street.

Photograph May Figure in Hearing

A photograph may figure conspicuously in the federal suit brought against the owners of the Comet which collided July 4 near the Pleasure Pier bridge here with the Lake Stavi resulting in damages of $25,000 demanded by the latter.

Members of the Comet crew discussing the case yesterday say the contention of the Stavi owners that the latter had her engines stopped and had dropped two anchors would have to be made in face of a photograph taken of the crash by a member of the Comet crew.

According to the reports of the collision, the picture was taken from the barge Secony 83 being towed by the Comet. The picture taken with a kodak has developed plainly.

The Lake Stavi is at Beaumont where it is being held preparatory to drydocking. The Comet is still in port here but will leave soon and go into drydock for repairs, officials said yesterday.

SHIPPING LAW VARIES, STATE RULING SHOWS

AUSTIN, July 9.—The four year Texas statute of limitation applies on claims by shippers for overcharges and by railroads for undercharges, the attorney general's department has ruled. The federal laws apply in all claims growing out of interstate commerce, however, the ruling said.

Assistant Attorney General Seager added in the opinion "that it is very doubtful in our minds as to whether the railroad commission has jurisdiction over limitation questions."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Well, you see it's this way," said the fairy.

One day the Twins, Nancy and Nick, were picking wild flowers in the woods when the funniest little man you ever saw appeared at their feet.

"Hold on there," he shouted merrily. "Don't pick me, please. I'm not a wild flower—I'm a fairy."

"Oh, you are!" cried the Twins in surprise, dropping down on their knees. "We love fairies."

"Well, I'm glad of that," said the little fellow, "for I expect you'll see a good bit of me before we're through."

"Through with what?" asked Nick.

"Well, you see it's this way," said the fairy, sitting down on a stone and crossing his knees. "My name is Zip—Mister Zip—and I'm going to run an amusement park for the wood folk. And I need extra help."

"And what did she say?" asked Nick.

"There, there!" laughed Mister Zip. "I'll tell you what the Fairy Queen said. She said, 'Go to the Twins at once, Mister Zip, and take them these magic shoes. Nancy and Nick are the best little helpers I know, and these magic shoes will make them just the right size, so they won't be stepping on you all the time.' And so saying, he reached down behind the stone and held up the two pairs of green shoes. Nancy and Nick slipped the shoes on and suddenly a funny thing happened. The place where the Twins had stood was as empty as air. It seemed as though the ground must have opened and swallowed them."

Mister Zip was so astonished that he fell clear off the stone he was sitting on. "Where are you, Twins?" he called loudly. "Nancy! Nick! Where are you?"

And then he had to laugh for there were the Twins under a daisy plant right beside him.

"We're all ready to go!" said Nancy happily. "Where is your amusement park, Mister Zip?"

"Right over there on the edge of the woods near that patch of May apple blossoms," said the fairyman, "come on and I'll show you. There's a merry-go-round and a roller-coaster and a ferris wheel and everything."

With a skip-and-a-run they reached the place beside the May blossom patch and as sure as the moon's round wasn't there the cutest little park you ever saw with a fence around it and a place to take tickets in everything—just like a big park in the cities where you've been lots of times. There were free swings and sliding boards and sand pits for the children to play in—and places to sell ice cream cones and lemonade and lollipops and peanuts. And a merry-go-round and a roller coaster and everything—just as Mister Zip said. Only these things were not free.

Over the gate was a big sign which said, "Happy-Go-Lucky Park, Come in."

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

HOW THE DEFEATED KNIGHT WOES

An English poet named Chaucer lived almost 600 years ago. One of his famous poems was about a tournament in Greece.

Greece was not at all famous for its tournaments. France, Italy, England and Germany were the countries where knightly battles were in style. Perhaps that is why he laid his poem there.

Let me tell you Chaucer's poem in story form:

The Duke of Athens was riding in the woods one May morning. He came upon two young men fighting with swords.

"Stop," cried the duke. What means this quarrel?"

"We both love Emily, sister of the duke's wife," was the reply.

"Well, I am the duke and you must not fight over her. I'll tell you what to do: We'll have a tournament. Each of you can get a hundred knights to help him. Come to my palace in fifty weeks and fight. The victor shall have Emily for wife."

The two knights agreed. They were named Palamon and Arcite. Far and wide they rode. Whenever they met a knight, they asked him to be on their side at the tournament.

"At last the great day came. Lords on great steeds rode through Athens towards the duke's palace. Many a bride was made of gold. The shields were bright polished and the helmets shone like the sun. Pipes, trumpets, and clarions sounded."

The palace was full of people. The duke sat at his window, overlooking the field of battle.

"Arcite, with his hundred knights entered through the western side. They held a red banner aloft, Palamon and his knights came in from the east. Their banner was white."

Then rang trumpets loud and clear. The knights drove their sharp spears into the sides of their horses. Madly they dashed toward one another. Spears crashed against shields and armor. Some were knocked from their horses. Others lost their helmets. Swords flashed in the sunlight.

"Palamon fought bravely, but at last by the force of twenty knights he was borne low. Seeing what had happened, the duke shouted:

"It is enough. The battle is over! Arcite has won, and he shall have Emily for bride."

Then went the victor to claim the fair maid. His lips curled in scorn as he thought of how his rival had been beaten.

"But his pride had come too soon. His horse suddenly tripped and fell. Arcite was crushed to death."

Palamon was still alive. Since his rival had passed from earth, Emily agreed to marry him. Thus ended the struggle for the hand of a maid."

Color Cut-Outs THE BOLD BANDIT

A few minutes passed, while the boys and girls at the Color Cutouts' Wild West Show waited for the next act. Then Jack came out again, this time disguised as a Mexican bandit. He crouched down behind some dry goods boxes painted up to represent rocks.

"Here I wait until stage coach pass," declared the bandit in a loud whisper. "Then I get money from my hold-up!"

Then the stage coach trotted out. The Mexican pointed his gun and cried out, "Bang! Bang!" Away ran the stage coach, and the trunk on the back dropped off. The Mexican ran to open it, but just then other shots were heard, somewhere in the distance.

The Mexican was very dark brown, a yellow blouse and hat, and a bright red scarf.

BRITISH FLIER GETS GAS FROM JAP SHIP

KASHIMOTO, Japan, July 10.—A. Stuart MacLaren, the British aviator on a world flight, arrived here at 3:08 o'clock this afternoon. He had received a supply of gasoline from a Japanese naval ship, which went to his assistance when he was forced to land at Sogami, 25 miles from here because his fuel supply was exhausted. MacLaren, who is accompanied by two other fliers in the same plane, left Kagoshima today.

They became frightened and ran away, throwing him from the wagon and a rear wheel passed over his right leg, breaking it below the knee. He also suffered other bruises, but on last report he was doing nicely.

Only two white captives are left in command of Japanese merchant vessels.

Movie Enjoys Record Run in California

NEW YORK, July 9.—Showmen who have often debated the effect of special touring productions of a film work on its after life in the movie houses, were recently interested in the daily reports from Grauman's Million Dollar Theater, Los Angeles, last week.

In six days at the Million Dollar Theater "The Covered Wagon" played to the huge gross of $24,000.

JOE BURKETT SCORES DAVIDSON IN TALK

TERRELL, Texas, July 9.—Joe Burkett, candidate for governor, spoke here today. A small part of his time was taken up in discussing the progress of some of his opponents. He said in part:

"Lynd Davidson tells you that if he were governor, he would repeal laws instead of making them. The fact is that he wants only a few laws repealed, among which is the twenty-hour law and the nine-hour law for women, the child labor law, and the 10-hour law for railroad employees, but the main one in his mind is the repeal of the Homestead law. Ask the lumber men if this is not so. They, together with big business are the ones backing him."

"Mr. Davidson says he is a business man and to back this statement he refers you to his record as regards the rehabilitating of the state railroad running from Rusk to Palestine."
